—DEMO BILL FACES IKE VETO—

Aid Offered For All Aged Citizens

Washington (AP) — A Kennedy-backed bill to provide medical care benefits for all aged citizens, regardless of income, was offered in the Senate Monday.

Strongly supported by the Democratic party's national nominees, Sen. John F. Kennedy for president and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson for vice president, the systems would be financed by Social Security payroll taxes.

President Eisenhower and some Democrats, including Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, oppose the Social Security tie-in. Eisenhower calls it a form of "compulsory medicine."

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM) offered the new bill as a substitute to one voted 12-4 by the Finance Committee headed by Byrd. The committee bill would provide 200 million dollars a year in federal grants, to help states provide medical care for their needy aged.

Anderson's bill would provide benefits for all who pay Social Security taxes and would use the provisions of the committee bill to cover everybody else.

Following Anderson, Sen.

Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) introduced his own health insurance plan as a substitute. This means the first test will come on Javits' bill.

Although it bore the endorsement of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican presidential nominee, Javits' bill was not given much chance of adoption. Democrats control the Senate almost 2-1, and were considered unlikely to accept a Republican version on the politically potent issue.

Javits, however, told the Senate in effect that, if Senators wanted to write into law a broad program of medical care for old persons, it was his amendment or nothing.

Quoted Ike

He quoted from Eisenhower that the President had repeatedly said he would not accept a plan tied into the Social Security system.

"With respect to what can become law," Javits argued, "the Senate has not two alternatives but one."

The Javits plan would provide that federal funds, to be matched by an equal amount of state funds, could be used to help old persons with low or medium incomes obtain health insurance protection. The states would have to set up the actual details of the program.

The Senate agreed to vote by 2 p.m. EDT Tuesday on Javits' bill and by 6 p.m. on the Anderson proposal.

Johnson

The agreement was worked out by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate majority leader and Democratic vice presidential nominee.

Anderson argued there should be no rule that help would go only to those who can demonstrate they do not have the means to pay the medical costs themselves.

Opening debate on his measure, he declared: "there is no means test in this at all."

All Latin America Target Of Castro, OAS Is Informed

Argentina Proposes Hemispheric Defense Against Communism

San Jose, Costa Rica (AP)—The United States Monday night accused the Cuban regime of Fidel Castro of plotting to spread Communist revolutions throughout Latin America. Cuba was accused of setting up training programs for spies.

Argentina followed up the U.S. charge with a proposal that the Organization of American States (OAS) set up a hemispheric defense against Communism.

Argentina's resolution submitted to the OAS foreign ministers' conference called for an extraordinary conference within 90 days to prepare an anti-Communist defense treaty.

The resolution also asked the inter-American defense board to prepare an advisory report "on aspects of revolutionary war and the means to prevent it with joint defense procedures" by OAS members.

Strongly Worded

The U.S. charge was in a strongly worded memorandum warning Latin America to be fearful of Cuba.

Informants said the memorandum indicates the United States is taking a tough policy approach in its efforts to correct a popular Latin American belief that only the United States and Cuba are involved in so-called extra-continental (Communist) menaces to the hemisphere.

Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa told newsmen he had seen the memorandum and will comment on it in a later address to the ministers' conference.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter submitted the 9-page memo as a supplement to an inter-American Peace Committee report on Communist threats to the hemisphere.

The committee report says tensions have been "considerably intensified as a result of the growing interest of the Soviet Union . . . in intervening more actively . . . in inter-American matters."

The United States earlier sent a memorandum to the 5-nation committee charging that Cuba is "being rapidly transformed into a dictatorial political state and also a state in which the reins of political control are being concentrated increasingly in the hands of the Communist Party."

Other Nations Worried

The report of the latest U.S. memorandum came amid indications many Latin America delegates are more concerned over the growing dispute between the United States and Cuba than over the Red menace.

The sources said several ministers are seeking to get the two countries to negotiate their differences through the peace committee.

Another report said a Latin America group would offer good offices in trying to settle the dispute.

There has been speculation that Cuba actually may be seeking condemnation by the OAS. According to this theory, the Cubans want an excuse to walk out on the conference and in turn condemn the foreign ministers as lackeys of the United States.

Milk Producers 'Storm' City Hall; Fee Blasted

... Would Be $45 Per Producer For Inspections

By Glenn Kreuscher
Farm Editor

Lincoln's city hall was stormed Monday afternoon by more than 300 milk producers from a 17-county area, who opposed a proposed $45 milk inspection fee for each producer, suggested by the Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Board.

Mayor Pat Boyles announced no decision would be made until next week.

The farmers, intent in their belief that the proposed fee is unjustified, were led by W. J. "Buck" Grant, manager of the Nebraska-Iowa Milk Producers Assn. who presented arguments against the proposal.

"Should dairy farmers be penalized to sell milk in Lincoln?" Grant asked the council.

To support his stand against the fee he furnished the council with a survey of 121 cities, of which 79, including Minneapolis, Colorado Springs, Chicago, Seattle, New York, Kansas City, Kan., Detroit and Denver make no inspection charge to the dairy farmer.

Of the rest of cities surveyed the fee varied from $5 to $20 per producer.

"Why should Lincoln be so far in excess of these other cities?" the dairymen asked.

Milk producers told the council that many of them had already spent in excess of $50,000 for cattle and equipment to furnish the Grade A milk and that the inspection requested by the City of Lincoln is more responsibility of the consumer than of the producer.

The present fee of two cents per cwt. collected from the processing plants amounts to $23,829.08, Grant said.

This, he told the council, should cover the program.

He supported this thought by suggesting that 4 trips on an average of the 628 producers in the area could be made at $3.73 (estimated cost per visit for Health Department) for a total of $9,366.76.

'WAIT TIL SNOW FLIES' WARNS MODEL A'S OWNER

By Gene Budig
Raymond — Like it? "Nope, you couldn't give me a dozen of those things."

The old gent in overalls turned his back on the sleek, foreign sports car and nodded.

"There, youngster, is a real automobile," he snorted.

Across the street was a 1928 Model A Ford, belching steam from the radiator.

"It don't look too good and it don't run too smooth, but in 14 years it's yet to leave me a foot," Louis Hornung boasted with a gleam in his eye.

The retired Raymond farmer, 79 years young, warned: "Come winter, youngster, I'll be pushing and pulling fellows like yourself out of snow drifts. You just wait and see."

Hornung said that either he or his wife drive, the old Model A at least once a day. "Don't get me wrong, youngster, I'm not really old fashioned. I've got a newer car that mother and I use for church on Sunday," he assured.

The Hornungs go-to-meeting car is a 1938 Ford.

Hornung bought the older spoke-wheeled auto for "twenty-five dollars cash."

He admitted, however, that the old buggy isn't quite what it used to be. "A couple of the doors have had to be wired shut," he confessed.

By this time, Mrs. Hornung appeared on the scene with a couple big sacks of groceries.

"Let's be on our way, Louis," she urged. He nodded, grabbing one of the bulky sacks.

Before chugging out of sight, Hornung bent his head out the window and called: "I'll be seeing you when the snow flies, youngster."

Guardsmen Moving Into Burned Area

The Nebraska National Guard was to move into the fire-scorched area near Crawford at daylight Tuesday, following destruction of 3,500 acres of woodland by the blaze.

Approximately 100 men of Battery A, First Howitzer Battalion, 168th Artillery, of Chadron were ordered to duty. The unit is commanded by Capt. Niles Walther.

Col. Donald Penterman, assistant adjutant general, was to inspect the area and was expected to arrive by plane later in the day. (Story on fire on page 2.)

Road Roller Crushes, Kills Lincoln Man

Missouri Valley, Iowa (AP)—Ray Mathews, 60, of Lincoln was killed Monday when a road-rolling machine he was operating went out of control and rolled over in a ditch near here.

Mathews' address was listed as 1138 S. 30th.

Coroner Harold Hennessy said the machine apparently got away from Mathews while going down a hill. It rolled over him.

Mathews was employed by the Middlestates Construction Co. of Omaha. The mishap occurred in Harrison County, just east of Beebeetown, or 9 miles southeast of Missouri Valley.

Russian Space Ship Also Landed Safely

Moscow (AP)—The Russians Monday pictured their 4½-ton space ship, carrying a cargo of animals, as the first man-made satellite ever to make an undamaged landing after an orbital flight.

The implication seemed to be that the Russians expect to be the first to put a man into orbit and bring him back alive, just as they were first last week to bring back the animals from an orbit about the earth.

Pravda repeated earlier reports that the unmanned space ship, on a signal from the ground, cut loose its capsule carrying two dogs, rats, mice, flies and plants at a low altitude Saturday. The space ship had been launched the day before.

The Communist party newspaper said "the space ship itself landed without any damage, just as the capsule with the test animals."

The newspaper went into no detail concerning the landing devices for either the capsule or the heavier space ships. (Retro-rockets and parachutes were used by the United States in bringing two capsules back to earth from orbit in space.)

During the 18th revolution of the space ship, the Pravda account said, "the signal for descent was given from the earth."

"All intricate automatic devices forming part of the system of insuring a safe landing operated accurately and faultlessly."

"From the first moment of descent, special equipment transmitted data to the earth characterizing the functioning of the braking system, the system of control over the descent . . . while the space ship re-entered the dense layers of the atmosphere."

Pravda said its correspondent was told by the Academy of Sciences these data "are of tremendous practical importance for future flights and safe return to the earth."

The charge against Dowty

Pair Charged Following 2 Automobile Fatalities

Charges were filed Monday against two drivers involved in separate Lincoln-area fatal auto accidents Saturday.

James Harold Birchum, 34, of Norman, Okla., was charged with motor vehicle homicide. He is scheduled to be arraigned in County Court Tuesday morning.

Vernon D. Dowty, 30, of Seward, pleaded innocent in Municipal Court to a reckless driving charge. His trial was set for Sept. 2 and a $200 appearance bond was required.

Police identified Birchum as driver of a car which was involved in a head-on collision at 63rd and Cornhusker Saturday afternoon with a car driven by Bradley J. Platt, 24, of 1712 N. 29th.

The crash jarred the Platt's 7-week-old son, Jimmy, from his mother's arms into the windshield. The child suffered a skull fracture and died later at a local hospital.

Chief Dep. County Atty. Paul Douglas said a test of Birchum's blood showed an alcoholic content sufficient to warrant a charge of drunken driving and since a fatality was involved, the homicide charge was filed.

Recently Released Birchum told police he had been released only Friday from a McPherson, Kan., jail where he had served a drunk-driving term.

Birchum reportedly was headed for Omaha in search of work when the mishap occurred.

resulted from the accident at 320 West O Saturday night which claimed the life of a 62-year-old transient.

Collision

The Safety Patrol said Dowty was driver of the car which was in collision with a man identified as Leo L. Misbach, no permanent address, as Misbach was crossing West O.

Misbach suffered multiple injuries and reportedly died instantly.

County Atty. Elmer Scheele said Misbach's identity was determined through fingerprints on file with the Safety Patrol headquarters. Scheele said Misbach had an FBI arrest record dating back to 1928 under the name of Misbach and numerous other aliases.

One such alias was Jack Leonard Perkins and a social security card with this name was found on his body.

Scheele said Misbach apparently was hitchhiking along West O at the time of the accident. Scheele said a test of Misbach's blood showed an alcoholic content of .30 (1.5 is sufficient for a drunken driving conviction).

Scheele said attempts to locate Misbach's relatives have been unsuccessful.

Congo Crisis Cooling

United Nations, N.Y. (AP)—Diplomats expressed belief Monday that developments within the past 24 hours had taken much of the heat out of the Congo crisis.

Relations between Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld and representatives of the Congo government continued tense but the Congolese apparently are not ready to jeopardize U.N. aid by clinging to unacceptable conditions.

Major developments included:

1. A resounding victory by Hammarskjöld in a Security Council debate that gave solid backing for his position despite attacks by the Congo government and the Soviet Union.

2. An announcement in Leopoldville that Premier Patrice Lumumba will not press his demands for U.N. aid in trying to put down the rebellious government of Katanga province. In Katanga the secessionist government of Premier Moïse Tshombe and allies from elsewhere in the Congo called on the Congo army to get rid of Premier Lumumba and join their effort to form a confederation of Congo states; they called Lumumba a traitorous helper of "Communist colonialism."

3. Assurances that the last Belgian military units would be out of the Congo within a week. Hammarskjöld said the Congo situation no longer was a threat to international peace.

Hammarskjöld was reportedly highly pleased by the support he received in the 11-nation council. Even Tunisia, the only African nation on the council, backed him up. The support was so solid that the Soviet Union decided against any formal challenge.

The secretary-general however, has concluded that his position would be less vulnerable if he followed the same procedure he has found so successful in directing the U.N. emergency force in Palestine.

This calls for setting up an advisory committee at U.N. headquarters made up of representatives of the countries which have contributed military units to the 14,500-man U.N. force in the Congo. A U.N. spokesman said he would proceed promptly to form this new body.

Lumumba Does About-Face; Backs U.N.

Confidence Is Restored

Leopoldville, The Congo (AP)—Premier Patrice Lumumba's government backed down Monday and dropped its efforts to force Dag Hammarskjöld to revise U.N. operations in the Congo.

The government reversed itself after the Security Council, meeting in New York, in effect reaffirmed the secretary general's policy in conducting the U.N. military and civilian aid program.

A spokesman issued the news following a 3-hour conference of Lumumba and the silver-haired Soviet ambassador to the Congo, Mikhail D. Yakovlev.

Won't Press Demands
The government "sees no reason to press its demands," said the spokesman, Serge Michel, a left wing Frenchman of Russian origin who is the premier's chief press aide.

"The government is satisfied that Belgian troops will be withdrawn. The government considers the atmosphere good."

The demands, voiced by Lumumba last week, included withdrawal of all white troops from the Congo, a supply of U.N. planes to interior trouble spots, and the appointment of a 14-nation African-Asian commission to advise Dag Hammarskjöld.

Evidently referring to the Soviet Union, the premier had threatened to appeal to another power unless the Security Council bowed to his demands.

It was clear that the Security Council's tacit approval of the policy pursued by Hammarskjöld has played a major role in influencing the stand of the Lumumba regime.

One Extreme To Another
Lumumba has moved from one extreme to another in his stormy career as the leader of this chaotic, newly independent nation.

Lumumba was in telephone contact with Deputy Premier Antoine Gizenga, an extreme nationalist who heads the Congolese delegation at the U.N.

According to Congolese officials, Gizenga was satisfied with the way the situation developed.

Gizenga reportedly stressed that "no one at the Security Council said that the government of the Congo was wrong."

The government of secessionist Katanga province also welcomed the outcome of the Security Council session.

Nuclear Talks Are Receded

Geneva (UPI)—The East-West nuclear test ban conference recessed for 5 weeks Monday after the United States accused the Russians of hampering progress by making unreasonable demands.

U.S. Deputy Delegate David Popper leveled the charge against the Soviets in a 70-minute session of the 21-month-old talks of officials from the United States, Britain and Russia.

Shortly afterward, the conference was recessed until Sept. 27. Soviet Chief Delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin said he was optimistic that the interval would bring some advance toward a nuclear test ban treaty.

The main argument between East and West is over the American research program aimed at perfecting a system of identifying small underground disturbances that are hard to detect.

Cholera Scourge Claims 500 Lives IN W. Pakistan

Lahore, Pakistan (UPI)—More than 500 persons have died in a cholera epidemic that has swept across West Pakistan, the Ministry of Health reported Monday.

The epidemic has been brought under control, it was said, but reports of a few new cases continue to trickle in. Officials said the U.S. International Co-operation Administration had been of great help in a mass inoculation program.

The origin of the epidemic was traced to Jammu, Kashmir, where the disease was reported more than a month ago. Cholera germs were believed to have reached the West Pakistan town of Sialkot via the River Aik Nullah, which flows from Jammu.

Soon after the epidemic hit some areas, residents fled, leaving their dead behind, the government said. Epidemic control experts were immediately sent to affected areas.

A program of cleaning up rubbish and sewers was implemented.

GORE TAGS OPINION POLLS 'UNJUSTIFIED'

Washington (UPI)—Sen. Albert Gore charged Monday that public opinion polls have an "entirely unjustified" influence on elections and suggested an investigation. Two leading poll-takers challenged his conclusions.

The Tennessee Democrat said in a Senate speech that the polls are "almost meaningless and in many instances misleading." He added they were an "appropriate area" for study by the Senate Privileges and Elections subcommittee.

Dr. George Gallup not only denied that the polls have "unjustified influence" but said there was evidence to the contrary.

Elmo Roper agreed there are pitfalls in polling because "there can be a lot of misuse of the polls themselves." But he said independent polls "have very little effect on the voters."

"The independent polls are accurate when they are taken," he said, "but they don't intend to tell what's going to happen in the future."

Gore included the Gallup Poll in his criticism, noting its most recent survey gave Vice President Richard M. Nixon a 50 to 44% lead over

Sen. John F. Kennedy in the presidential race.

As a result, he said, some Republicans were gleeful, and some Democrats were "wringing their hands."

Then he pointed out that the 1948 polls predicted Thomas E. Dewey would defeat Harry S. Truman, and also cited a recent newspaper poll (the Chattanooga Free Press) which mistakenly said Sen. Estes Kefauver would be defeated in the Tennessee Democratic primary.

Gallup used the Dewey-Truman example to back up his statement that "there is absolutely no evidence or proof that shows polls have any influence."

ALLEN DULLES TELLS VFW:

Russia Using 'Spy Phobia' To Tighten Iron Curtain

Detroit (UPI)—Central Intelligence Agency Director Allen W. Dulles said Monday night that Russia is exploiting a "spy phobia" carefully designed to draw the Iron Curtain tighter in order to preserve "the secrecy of military preparations."

Dulles told a Veterans of Foreign Wars meeting here that the publicity given the trial of U-2 Pilot Francis G. Powers, the imprisonment of the crew of an American RB-47 reconnaissance plane shot down last July and the "harassment" of American tourists were all part of a "calculated" plan to bolster Soviet secrecy.

Behind the "shield" of secrecy, Dulles said, "the Kremlin believes it is free to prepare for a surprise attack on the free world in relative security."

"Unacceptable" Now

But the nation's top intelligence official said he believes Russia still feels the consequences of launching a nuclear war to further its aims would be so devastating as to be "unacceptable."

Dulles warned, however, that "the Communists will move against us on every front where they consider action to be effective and for the time being they will move primarily on the 'short-of-war' fronts."

The man who designed the now famous U-2 airplane said Monday the United States should learn to "shut up" about its military secrets and "make things at least a little harder" for its enemies.

Russia has "no need to put a aerial reconnaissance planes (like the U-2) over the United States," said Clarence L. Johnson, vice president of advanced development projects for Lockheed Aircraft Co., "we tell them everything they can possibly want to know."

Urges Clampdown

He told the 14,000 VFW members that "as a nation we certainly run off at the mouth." He urged a clampdown on security information.

Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates also addressed the convention and said "we have spent and will continue to spend whatever sums are needed in support of a foreign policy backed by great military strength."

Famed Broadway Lyricist, Hammerstein, Dies At Home

Doylstown, Pa. (AP)—Oscar Hammerstein II, famed Broadway lyricist and producer, died of cancer Tuesday. He was 65.

Hammerstein died at his home at nearby Highland Farms of stomach cancer. He was attended by his physician Dr. Raymond Tice.

Hammerstein had been ill for some time with the disease. In 1958 he was operated on for removal of his gall bladder and in 1959 for stomach cancer.

He leaves his widow, Dorothy, a daughter and two sons.

With Richard Rodgers, Hammerstein wrote some of America's most notable and popular musical shows.

"I am in love with a wonderful theater," was Hammerstein's own comment on the career that swept across 40 years of entertainment enterprise.

One biographer noted: "He has been associated with more notable musicals than any other showman in the history of the American theater."

When composer Cole Porter was once asked to name the most profound change in musical theater in recent years, he replied tersely, "Rodgers and Hammerstein."

Others called him the Bobbie Burns of the stage.

Although partnership with composer Richard Rodgers was an uninterrupted and triumphant collaboration during the final 18 years of his life, Hammerstein long before had carved out a permanent niche in Broadway history.

He began by writing a play in 1920, but soon after developed into a lyricist, writing words for the music of virtually every ranking composer—Rudolph Friml, Sigmund Romberg, Jerome Kern, Vincent Youmans and George Gershwin.

"I couldn't write a sophisticated or sharp lyric, or something terribly, terribly clever, like some lyric writers,"

Huge Fire Near Crawford Is Apparently Under Control

Crawford (UPI)—A fire, which has burned out 3,500 acres of wooded area near here, is apparently under control.

The fire has reached a natural escarpment which borders part of the blaze. Fire department officials said earlier that a stiff wind could jump the fire into the 94,000 acres of national grasslands near here, but the danger for the moment seems slim.

The southernmost tip of the fire was 7 miles north and 15 miles west of here and was 3 miles in width. Some smaller areas were also burning around the major area.

One house was burned, but officials refused to identify it.

Earlier in the day they had ordered evacuation of the Rex Coffey ranch near here.

Other Fires

Several other fires cropped up in this area Monday. Lightning caused a fire in range country in Sioux County north of Scottsbluff. This fire is still blazing.

Other fires were reported in range lands north of Lake Minatare. Volunteers have been requested to help battle the blazes.

Monday afternoon 75 acres of grass and woodland were burned out in the bluffs west of Scottsbluff. A trash fire is believed to have started the blaze.

This area last had more than one inch of rain on June 12. In July only .63 inches of rain fell here and thus far this month the area has received only .53 inches.

Plant Planned Near Cozad

Cozad—The Monroe Automotive Equipment Co. of Monroe, Mich., is planning to buy a 20-acre site on the outskirts of Cozad.

"It is our intention to build a manufacturing plant on the site, although plans are still vague," George M. Streicher, representative of the firm said.

The company representative would not disclose what type of manufacturing would be involved, nor the number of persons to be employed, but it was assumed the company would manufacture some type of automotive equipment.

Their Monroe, Mich. firm employs 1,100 persons and grossed $25 million in sales last year.

Shopping Cost Might Eclipse Inspection Fee

A Seward dairy farmer, speaking against the proposed $45 milk inspection fee which the City Council was considering Monday, spoke his piece before the city officials and added a word of wisdom to the 300 fellow dairymen assembled at the public hearing.

"I'm against the inspection fee," Rolland Ramsey said, "but maybe we made a mistake coming into Lincoln to oppose it, and turning our wives loose downtown shopping. We stand to lose more than $45."

SHOWERS TO HIT MOST OF STATE TODAY

Showers and thunderstorms are in the picture for most of Nebraska by Wednesday.

Cooler temperatures are expected for the northwest portions of the state by Tuesday night, but a high in the mid 90's is predicted for eastern Nebraska.

Cloudy skies Tuesday are expected to turn into scattered showers and thunderstorms by evening in the panhandle area.

Cooler temperatures are in store for that area by Wednesday, and the high Tuesday afternoon should reach only the 70's and 80's.

Lincoln had a high of 92 Monday and the "hot spot" in the state was Chadron where a high of 103 was recorded.

The state low of 56 Monday was reported at Sidney.

Biter Suspended

Montreal (UPI)—Mrs. Arthur Queveillon, 46, was given a suspended sentence for biting two policemen who arrested her 63-year-old husband on a traffic charge.

$21,644 Total Is 1st Budget Allocation Since Bond Issue

By Nancy Ray

In last minute budget action Monday the City Council approved a request from Lincoln General Hospital for $21,644 for medical equipment.

John Whitten Gets Library Board Post

John C. Whitten, vice president of the First Trust Co., was named to the City Library Board for a 7-year term at the Monday City Council meeting.

Whitten, 59, of 3215 So. 31st, will replace Elwood N. Thompson, on the board.

A graduate of the University of Nebraska college of law, Whitten is a former member and president of the Lincoln School Board, served as president of the Lincoln Community Chest, and has been active in other civic affairs.

Milk Inspection Fee Draws Assn. Official's Warning

W. J. (Buck) Grant, official of the Iowa-Nebraska Co-operative Milk Assn. warned city officials Monday that the association's plans to build a processing plant northeast of Lincoln may be reconsidered if the City Council passes a $45 milk inspection fee against dairymen processing their milk in Lincoln.

Grant said the association now has a 20-acre tract on No. 70th near the Union Airport, on which they plan to build a processing and handling plant for excess milk that co-op members produce.

He pointed out that if the inspection fee went through, some association members could avoid the fee if the processing plant were moved to Seward or some other city where an inspection fee is not required of dairymen.

The Late LeRoy H. DeBrown Gets Council Tribute

City Council members passed a resolution of tribute to LeRoy H. (Buster) DeBrown, a former council member who died Aug. 16.

The resolution cited Mr. DeBrown for "his shrewd business judgment, astute wisdom and unquestioning integrity, his sincerity of purpose and his understanding of people, which together with his amiable personality and winsome smile, were contributing factors to his success and the host of friends who will cherish his memory."

Woman's $2,500 Injury Claim Heard By Council

A Lincoln woman's claim for $2,500 against the city for injuries she received from a jagged iron pipe was heard by the City Council Monday and referred to the city legal department.

Mrs. Mary McManus of 3241 C, who filed the claim, said she had suffered injuries to her foot when she alighted from a bus at the 30th and D corner and tripped on the jagged iron which she alleged was protruding from the ground about 8 inches.

ment—the first city budget allocation to the hospital since 1926.

Final approval of the 1960-61 city budget by the council was scheduled for 11:30 a.m. Friday. The city mill levy, expected to be up one to 1.2 mills over 1959's levy of 16.7 mills will also be set then.

The action to add the Lincoln General request to the budget was requested by Hospital Board President Robert Guenzel, who said the funds were needed to replace 35-year-old equipment and to expand vital services. Included in the request were funds for emergency room equipment and for surgical lights.

Self-Supported

The hospital has operated under a self-supporting budget since its establishment except for the initial $100,000 bond issue and small subsidies in 1925 and 1926.

At its regular Monday sessions the council members also passed the following ordinances:

First Reading
—creation of a sidewalk district on the west side of 40th, Vine to Dudley.

Final 2nd Reading

Bartunek Asks Council For Capitol Parking

Lincoln attorney Leo Bartunek Monday asked the City Council to "pity the poor tourist" and increase parking facilities around the State Capitol.

Bartunek suggested that about 50 stalls could be added to present facilities if the malls on So. 15th St. south of the Capitol were surfaced and marked for tourist parking.

Southampton, England (AP)—Hundreds of British seamen in this bustling port Monday night called off a wildcat strike that has disrupted liner sailings across the Atlantic for the past 11 days.

Leaders of the union-defying strike advised the seamen to return to their ships—a decision that cleared the way for sailing this week of several big liners including the Queen Mary and the Mauretania.

"We are writing off Southampton as a strike port," said a spokesman of the Union splinter group which called the seamen out to demand more pay. "There has been some discontent among the people on strike," he added.

The walkout, however, still gripped many ports, particularly on the northeast coast. More than 100 ships were held up.

The Queen Mary has been strikebound in Southampton since it docked from New York a week ago. The bulk of its passengers, mostly homebound American and Canadian tourists, were flown home in an emergency airlift.

Council Chamber Really Jammed

"Standing (and sitting) room only" prevailed Monday afternoon as more than 300 milk producers from a 17-county area converged upon the city hall to protest the proposed milk-inspection fee suggested by the Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Board. (Star Photo)

Milk Inspection Fee Argued

for plant inspection, and said present fees should bring in $4,530.32 over the cost of the program.

Scoff At Figure

Milk producers scoffed at the City-Lancaster county figure of 7,346 calls made to 628 producers, which would average 11.7 calls per producer.

Joe Cunningham, president of the Nebraska-Iowa Milk Assn., said, "We have surveyed the milk producers here today and find no one that had 11.7 calls per farm."

Dr. G. R. Underwood, speaking for the City-County Health Department, said, "There are many charges besides the farm visits. These include laboratory work and other charges necessary to the inspection."

The milk producers argued that if it cost the city $45 the inspection should be passed to the state.

Authority Challenged

Jack Breslow, farmer and Lincoln Dairy Co. president, challenged the city's authority to send inspectors to the wide area now covered.

He said, "Let the state furnish the inspection service. It can be done cheaper and easier."

None of the estimated 300 producers were in opposition to inspection. They expressed themselves in favor of milk inspection, but united in disagreeing with the proposed charges suggested by the Lincoln-Lancaster Co. Health Board.

Mayor Pat Boyles in asking Grant what charges would be approved by the producers got this response:

"Much As Omaha" "I am hard pressed to say Lincoln should not pay as much as Omaha."

Omaha producers pay $20 per farm and the processing plants are assessed 2 cents per cwt.

Dairy farmers taking the rostrum in addressing the council asked, "Do any other producers of farm products have to pay inspection fees to the city of Lincoln to sell their products?"

A spokesman for the Milk Haulers told the council that the men handling the milk for the producers were in sympathy with the dairy farmers and supported their stand.

Jet Age Trip To Sioux Falls Takes 27 Minutes

By Bill Anderson

Pioneer trail blazers once trekked from Omaha to Sioux Falls, S.D. in 10 days. Monday a group of Lincoln businessmen and civic leaders made it in just under 30 minutes.

They were aboard United Air Lines' new Boeing 720 jet mainliner for a demonstration ride. The 720 begins east-west service through Omaha Tuesday.

The huge 4-engine jet sits like a big bird—but no bird ever flew so high and fast. Ninety-seven people were strapped in their seats on takeoff.

As you wonder when they'll start the big engines, while gazing out your window, you see the runway moving. The jets are almost soundless until they are revved up during takeoff.

"We'll be cruising at 150 m.p.h. when we lift her off," the pilot's voice says over the intercom.

You think to yourself, "What if this thing doesn't get off the ground?" The plane weighs 213,000 pounds on takeoff.

You watch runway strips whizzing beneath the wings and then you're airborne, climbing rapidly.

When you finally level off, you're flying at 24,000 feet, more than 4 miles above Nebraska countryside. Square miles look like tiny patches and you see towns 40 and 50 miles away.

"You are traveling 575 miles an hour," the pilot says. But you don't have the impression of tremendous speed, for you're high above the clouds and land moves below in a slow rolling panorama.

Then you begin to bank and are passing over Sioux Falls, ready for the return flight to Omaha. The time it took to go 230 miles—approximately 27 minutes.

At Sioux City, still 120 miles from Omaha, you begin a slow descent.

You wonder how the pilot will slow the plane for a safe landing and the intercom tells you:

"The jet engine develops a reverse thrust and we will land at 150 miles per hour."

The big bird lights gently on the runway and coasts in to the terminal.

Your first jet flight is over.

Red States Arm Cuba

New Russian Envoy Kudriavtsev Arrives

Havana (UPI)—An official disclosure that Cuba is being armed by Communist countries coincided Monday with the presentation of credentials by new Soviet Ambassador Sergei Mijailovich Kudriavtsev.

The arms disclosure was made as Premier Fidel Castro reviewed 2,000 civilian militia troops at the former American naval base in San Julian, Pinar del Rio Province. The militia units, which had completed a 45-day training course, bore modern automatic rifles made in Communist Czechoslovakia.

And U.S. Troops, Too The mushrooming militia, Castro bragged, can take on any invaders, including U.S. troops.

The display of Communist equipment was the first open admission that Cuba has been buying arms behind the Iron Curtain.

Full diplomatic honors accompanied Kudriavtsev's presentation of credentials to President Osvaldo Dorticos. The Communist diplomat, linked in Canada with espionage charges only a year ago, has installed temporary embassy headquarters in the Havana Hilton Hotel.

an old hand at pioneering!

Upon its organization 21 years ago this month, Consumers Public Power District pioneered a new kind of electric service for Nebraskans—an integrated, state-wide system owned by the customers it serves.

The benefits have been many. An always-dependable supply of power has been provided. The cost of electricity to the customer has gone down. In fact, electric rates in Nebraska are among the lowest in the nation. All income that would ordinarily be considered as "profit" has been turned back into the constant improvement of your electric service.

Today, Consumers is still pioneering in many ways, chief among which is the construction of the nuclear power facility at Sheldon Station. By participating in the nation's power reactor development program, Consumers is helping to open the way to a new era of social and economic progress.

Welfare Complex, Complicated

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

When Gov. Ralph Brooks asked the Board of Control and Division of Public Welfare to "review immediately" the state's assistance standards, he was literally speaking a mouthful. This is a field of government which has received growing attention in recent years at federal, state and local levels. It is not one, either, for the public in general to lightly dismiss because it involves their pocketbook and their moral responsibilities.

But to appreciate anything, people must first understand it, so a brief outline of what the assistance program is might be in order. A more complicated program would be hard to find.

In Lancaster County, the Welfare Department has an operating budget of about $1.5 million a year—not exactly small change. In this county alone, the program involved, in April, a total of 928 persons on the old age assistance rolls alone. It is estimated that one-half the nursing home occupants in this city are on the OAA rolls—constituting 265 persons. These numbers are constantly going up, too, because the longevity rates are on the increase.

The average age of OAA recipients is now over 80 and would be substantially more than this were it not for a very few at the lowest age level. Naturally as the longevity rates are improved by modern science and advanced medical care, the cost of welfare programs is going to advance.

The next question is who pays for all of this and the answer comes out in triplicate—the federal government, the state and the county. The federal government pays the lion's share of assistance, the state legislates the program and pays some costs and the county administers the program and also pays some costs. The county payments are all related to and dependent upon medical care.

Available for all OAA payments from state and federal sources is an amount equal to the maximum payment of $70 for every person on the rolls. On certain kinds of medical care, the state and federal payments will go beyond the $70 maximum per individual. On other kinds of medical care, the state and federal will pay only for that which can be done within the $70 limit. This latter category has recently been expanded and already includes most of the types of medical care that welfare recipients would receive.

In July of 1960, Lancaster County assistance payments totaled $67,366.80 of which $45,764.73 represented medical care. But only $3,505.25 of that care was provided for treatment within the $70 limit. This left the county paying $9,495.84 for medical care on an assistance basis in July. In addition to this, there is the county's and city's share of the Health Department which includes the services of two dentists and the distribution of many drug items.

At the present time, the county has 182 recipients at a maximum assistance level of $70. Thus, if these people need the kind of medical care for which the state and federal will not pay in addition to the aid limit, the bill must be picked up by the county. In July there were 90 people who needed medical care and had no room in their grant to pay for it.

There is a total of 481 people on the county rolls whose grant is less than $70 a month. There are another 265 in nursing homes who do not affect the picture because their grants include their entire care. When the governor discusses a modernization of the grant standards, he is discussing the raising of more grants to the total maximum of $70.

Only legislative action can raise the maximum figure. But the more people you have at the maximum figure, the less there is available then for medical care. If a person receives a total grant of $60, this leaves another $10 per month per year that the federal government will provide for medical care in many cases.

In these cases, if the medical care exceeds $10 per month, the difference must be made up by the county. Thus, if standards for aid are raised, the medical care liability of the county increases. This, of course, does not mean that the standards should not be raised. These standards were last reviewed in 1958 and the cost of living has increased since then. The maximum for food at this time for the aged or incapacitated is $29 per month and this may be too small. The same thing may be true for other standards such as diet, home supplies, clothing, rent, utilities, etc.

How this massive program is handled, and what determines eligibility is another story in itself. The important thing is that the public understand what is involved when certain changes are considered—what it might cost them and what it might mean to the recipients. Certainly, the nation is moving more and more into the welfare field but it will move intelligently only with public understanding.

Costs Steadily Rising

New Strength In UN

There can be little doubt that the United Nations has picked up new strength in the Congo controversy. In its latest move, the international body has just turned down a move by Russia which, in effect, would take UN forces out of the Congo. The Reds had trumped up a far-fetched case in which it linked the UN troops with the NATO pact.

In this African problem, the UN has eliminated the possibility of Communist domination as a result of turmoil and revolution—conditions under which the Russians seem to flourish. The UN force has made certain that for the time being there would be no capitalization by any country on the insecurity of the new Congo government of Patrice Lumumba.

It is still not clear if the UN action pleases Premier Lumumba and it does not in at least one respect. Lumumba does not like the UN neutrality policy toward the secessionist province of Katanga but he must accept this as an internal problem over which the UN does not want or have jurisdiction. In Katanga as elsewhere in the Congo, the UN's job is simply to maintain law and order to permit the local governing bodies to establish themselves.

Thus, the ultimate end of the Congo affair is still in the hands of Lumumba who may yet choose either communism or democracy, but he, at least, will not have to make his decision under the threat of pending revolution. In a sense, it was a threat of revolution which created the problem for Cuba's Castro and which has led him into the iron-fisted practices of communism.

This is where the world will benefit from the UN position in Africa. If periods of peaceful transition from colonialism to independence can be assured in the world, then a great chasm has been bridged. This has been one of the greatest areas of weakness on the part of U.S. foreign policy and represents a position that should be maintained and strengthened.

The Big Race

Wanting to convince the world and make the most of their propaganda potential, the Russians carried out a press conference for the two dogs they recently recovered from a flight into orbit around the earth. The United States has already recovered monkeys from a somewhat less complicated flight into outer space and has recovered a capsule from an orbiting satellite. The U.S., too, has its Echo satellite now whirling around the earth for a major advance in space communications.

Where all of this leaves these two major powers in the current space race is pretty hard to understand. The U.S. is certainly in a better position today than it was a few short years ago but neither country could relax at this time and hope to come out the ultimate victor. The prize will undoubtedly go to that nation which is first to send a man into outer space and return him to earth or even send him into an orbit around the world.

More Than Persuasion

Nebraska's national effort to save 60 lives in 1960 has suffered from a recent spurt in highway fatalities, but it still holds bright promise of conducting the state through the year with a better than average safety record.

It is evident that an urgent ideological campaign can do some good. Persuasion no doubt has caused many Nebraska drivers to think twice before committing a rash act with the result that some lives have been taken. But it is also indicated that education and persuasion alone will not suffice to bring the annual death toll down to the minimum of unpreventable accidents. There will have to be more work on eliminating drivers who actually, for one reason or another, are not qualified to operate automobiles.

It is obvious that physical examination and training tests cover only a part of the field of driver qualification. There is a matter of temperament and responsibility. An impulsive driver may be a perfect physical specimen and an expert performer at the controls of a car, yet no one knows when he will feel prompted to bolt through a caution light or create a dreadful situation on the highway on the spur of the moment.

Driving is not a right. It is a privilege. And it is only privilege for those who can prove their dependability. And it is a privilege that must be taken away when there is sufficient evidence that the withdrawal takes less away from the individual than it contributes to public safety.

Nebraska must not relax its crusade for safety, but it will have to conceive better driver laws before it gets full results from its efforts.

"A Brilliant Production, But Confidentially, Don't You Think The Second Act Sagged A Little?"

DREW PEARSON

Texas Repeating 'Al Smith Battle'

WASHINGTON—It looks as if the Al Smith battle is being fought all over again in certain parts of the USA—especially in Texas. There, home state of Vice Presidential Candidate Lyndon Johnson, religion has been injected into the race in a big way. A sermon by Rev. W. A. Criswell of the First Baptist Church of Dallas, critical of "Sen. Jack Kennedy, a Catholic, has been reprinted by the thousands and circulated all over Texas.

Significantly, in Texas the drive against Kennedy and Johnson has been organized by the same man who sparked the drive against Al Smith in 1928—Carr Collins, president of the Fidelity Union Life Insurance Company of Dallas, owner of the Crazy Hotel at Mineral Wells, Texas, and one of the leading lay Baptists of Texas. Collins also managed the colorful campaigns in which "Pass The Biscuits Pappy" O'Daniel, a flour salesman, became governor of Texas and later senator.

Even while the Democrats were still in session in Los Angeles, Collins was summoned to Nixon's headquarters in Washington and assigned the job of organizing Texas against Kennedy. Returning to Texas, Collins cautioned its members not to say anything about religion, but is reported to have made private statements that America was likely to fall into the hands of Rome.

Collins is a member of the board of Baylor University, famous Baptist College, most of whose trustees are back-ers of ex-Gov. Shivers, the Eisenhower Republican. Shivers is being pressured to come out for Nixon, even run for the Senate against Johnson in order to keep Johnson busy campaigning in Texas instead of other parts of the country.

Joining Collins in his "Texans for Nixon" are Bob Smith of Houston, second wealthiest oil man in Texas, hitherto a close friend of Speaker Sam Rayburn, Hines Baker of Houston, former president of Humble Oil and Refining, a Rockefeller subsidiary; Dr. Guy Newman, president of Howard Payne College, and Earl Hankamer, the Houston oil man.

Part of the "Texans for Nixon" strategy is to keep Gov. Price Daniel, a strong Johnson supporter, from taking any part in the campaign. Daniel has had his eye on the presidency of Baylor University after he retires from politics, and it's been intimated that if he campaigns for Kennedy, he could not become president of a Baptist College.

Collins denied that he was circulating any Baptist literature or injecting religion into the campaign.

"Religion is not being mentioned in our literature," he insisted. "There is no use disguising it, however, religion is a very important issue in the campaign."

NOTE—There are about 1,500,000 Baptists in Texas. The Methodists and Catholics are second in number, running about neck-to-neck. However, 75 per cent of the Catholics are of Spanish origin and don't vote because they have not paid their poll taxes.

ED KOTERBA

Beehive Of Protest On Kennedy Hairdo

WASHINGTON — Whew! The ladies are after me. All I did was write—innocently, I thought—about Jackie Kennedy's hairdo.

It all started with a little informal poll I conducted in the West on the question: "Whose wife would make the best First Lady?"

Pat Nixon got 31 votes and Jackie received six. But as things turned out, I should have written, instead, about the weather. Or, at least, edited out the opinion of the middle-aged woman who remarked, candidly:

"For a face so young and beautiful as Jackie's, I cannot think of a more distracting hairdo to go with it than that 'beehive' she insists on wearing..."

This kicked over a beehive of another nature. An Indiana lady flew at me with a hot stinger:

"Woe to Jack Kennedy. His wife is beautiful, but has a stylish 'beehive.' Also, she's a youthful 30 years old. Young as they both are, rich as they are, willing to forego a quiet family life for the busiest of all jobs—and yet all you can do is side with the narrow-minded simple women you interviewed."

I protest. I didn't side with anybody. Just reported what they were saying about what they were thinking.

And as long as they are in public life, ladies like Jacqueline (Jackie) Kennedy and Thelma (Pat) Nixon, will continue to be targets of freedom of expression.

Indeed, Jackie Kennedy would be the last to try to throttle public opinion. It wasn't many years ago that she and I were collecting public opinions, side by side on the Washington scene, as contemporaries on the old Washington Times Herald—she as an inquiring photographer.

Of the hundreds of pieces of mail that found their way to me, perhaps the most indignant was the product of a hairdresser in New York City. First, she bawls me out:

"Jackie Kennedy's coiffure," she says, "is not a beehive. A beehive is a rather close-wrapped, high-piled style, giving—its detractors claim—a rather pointed-head effect. Examples of this fad are to be seen atop almost all female patrons of Greenwich Village coffee houses."

To expressive ladies who contributed to my poll, she says:

"Can't these tiresome biddies reconcile themselves to the fact that, whichever of the two wins, they're going to be stuck with a chic and attractive first lady—yonger and prettier than we've been accustomed to within my memory."

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

Wouldn't you be surprised if a box actually opened when you pressed on the dotted line that said, "To open, press here"? I know I would.

This morning I struggled to open just such a box. I pressed until the cardboard container bowed inward. Still it didn't open, so I pressed again. I broke my fingernail which in turn sent my patience flying out of the window. I took a knife and cut along the edge, which is what I should have done in the first place. Personally I think the manufacturers were more accurate in their old type of label which stated: "To open, cut along dotted line."

I do think a cheese maker has a tried and true way of opening plastic bags which does not leave the housewife in a state of mental confusion. A string runs the full length of the package. A little red tab sticks out from the top for gripping. A quick jerk breaks the seal and a gentle pull opens the package. It works every time.

I have selected several new iris from a fall seed catalog. One is "Ranger," a near crimson-red. Another is "Pagan Princess," a shell-pink with deeper pink falls, and "Great Lakes," clear medium blue. I have three undecided on my list also: "Fire Dance," "Cascade Splendor" and "Solid Mahogany." That took a number of evenings to boil the list down to three. The elaborate pictures didn't help the matter either, for about the time I had read the descriptions and decided on one, I turned the page and saw another iris more beautiful.

Old Tabby Cat is still dreaming on the doorstep, now and then stretching as if he had notions of getting up but just hadn't gotten around to it.

Of course, the price was one helpful guide. Some I scratched immediately when I read the fine print which included the price. Had it not been for that, I suppose I would still be trying to come to a decision.

Early morning is such a good part of the day. The last bright star hasn't left the sky yet. The slow-moving stream still seems to be yawning, reluctant to get moving (which also seems to be my trouble). But the birds are up, flitting wildly and singing about all the work to be done. Part of their work probably includes raiding the peach trees which are ripe enough to make for good eating.

The cattle come up to the feed bunks one by one to see if there's a bit of corn left. Overhead a hawk drifts idly with a wind tide.

But the morning air is cool and fresh—the best part of morning, I should say. It carries the scent of green corn and pasture meadows drenched in dew... new-mown hay and clover fields...

The last week has been one of craning necks and searching skyward for "Echo." There is something of wonder and almost disbelief in seeing the glistening object like a moving star circling the earth at the appointed time. History is indeed being made.

Soon the plane will be as outmoded to the younger generation as the covered wagon was to our generation. The old adage, "Hitch your wagon to a star," really doesn't seem so ridiculous, anymore.

Religion Issue

Lincoln, Neb.

Can anyone offer a sensible explanation of why the matter of a man's religion has to become an issue in a political campaign? A clear-thinking individual, if he will be honest with himself and with others, knows that it has absolutely no bearing on capabilities for leadership, public life and associated responsibilities.

Yet before the two national nominating conventions were concluded, we all knew it would be a part, and a big part of the campaigns. And already it is starting. It is beginning small, but it will increase in tempo and intensity as the campaigns themselves become more heated and election time gets closer.

There is only one reason why religion is pounced on so eagerly for political gain, and that is because it can be twisted so effectively into political fodder. The bigoted, weak and narrow-minded in this country are a vast field, indeed, and it is a sorry thing to think that their votes must necessarily count as fully as those of the intelligent and open-minded voter.

Let us try as much as we can to separate church and state in the months between now and November.

KENNEDY FAN

Lack Of Confidence

Ogallala, Neb.

Supporters of Lyndon Johnson are reported in the press to have said that they urged Johnson to accept the vice presidential nomination as a "restraining influence" on the "virtually socialistic platform" of young John Kennedy. Their comments do not show much confidence in Mr. Kennedy.

Whether Mr. Johnson can attain "safe and sane" national policies rather than what Johnson's backers describe as Kennedy's "radical" policies is doubtful.

These Johnson backers should realize that the Democratic party is no longer the party they once knew. If they really expect progressive yet stable government, they'd best switch to support of the Republican ticket.

Pied Piper Here

Lincoln, Neb.

I think we're all very likely to rue the day when the Council passed the ruling that cats must not only be licensed but must wear proof of such licensing on a jingling collar around their necks when they are out prowling around.

It's true that cats will catch a few birds, and it's the only thing I have against them. But at the same time, I don't think very many realize their value in keeping the rodent population under control. With this new law, how is a cat to sneak up on its prey? It will be a great day for the rats and mice.

They will be singing in the streets, to say nothing of the basements, barns, garages and perhaps even in our homes. And there will be swiss cheese all around.

I'm afraid we may unwittingly be re-enacting the ancient and wise story of the "Pied Piper of Hamelin," all over again.

Part Of The Game

Lincoln, Neb.

"Helen" in the August 16 Star sounds so childish, pounding her fists against a wall in frustration, and over what? How a woman, Mrs. Nixon, dresses her children. In the world in which they live, I am quite certain they are clothed in the best of fashion.

Since it is quite possible that "Helen" has never moved in the circles of society that the Nixons do, she can hardly be expected to vision the difference in her small world and that in which all political officials and their families move. They mingle and dine here and abroad with rulers and queens, and to those "Helen" would most likely appear as curious as they do to her. They would give neither a second thought nor glance, for their lives are full, busy and exciting.

Since the Nixon girls are young, there is nothing wrong in waiting for them to understand the mud-slinging to which most candidates are subjected. It's all part of the game, it seems, and really quite laughable to most.

ANITA CLARK

Editor's Note: Our interpretation of comments from the reader who signed herself "Helen" was that she referred to "baby clothes" worn by the Nixons' daughters only in the symbolic sense, with no actual criticism of their dress or grooming implied. As she stated it, she considered the girls too shielded and thought Mrs. Nixon should let them grow up enough to hear political barbs being tossed at their candidate father.

Greater Than Ike

Bellevue, Neb.

Both Kennedy and Nixon have declared that foreign affairs is the major issue in the coming campaign.

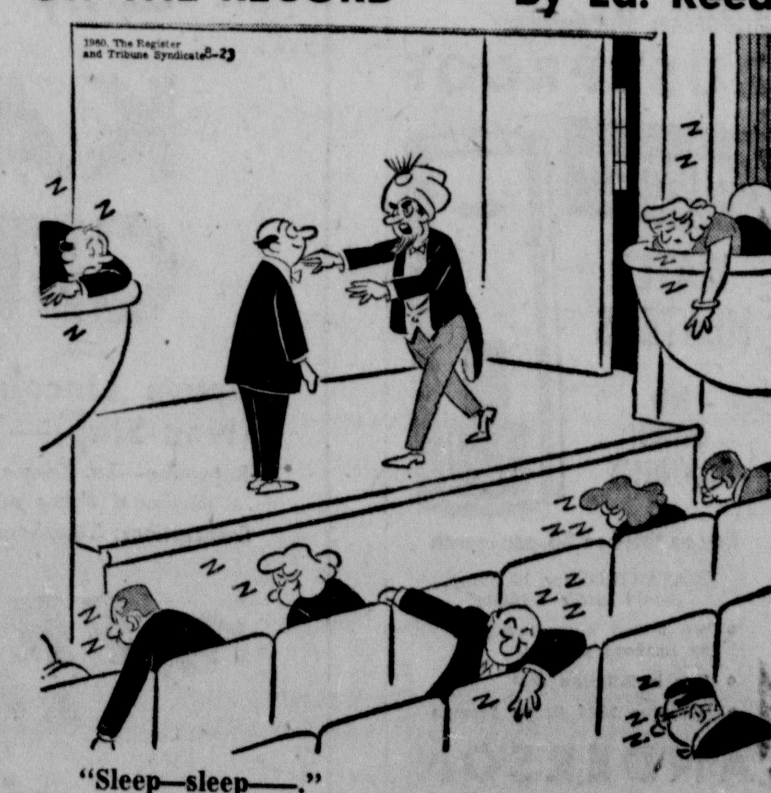

If this is true, it will not be difficult for the voters to decide whom they prefer. Both Nixon and Lodge have had vast experience in this field. We are all proud of the capable way in which Nixon debated Khrushchev publicly in Moscow, and Lodge had the duty of escorting Khrushchev through the U.S. By contrast, Kennedy and Johnson have had little experience in foreign matters.

With Nixon's training for the presidency and his ability, he may likely be an even greater president than Eisenhower.

Brooks' Social Security Suggestions Attacked

Broadened Benefits, Higher Earning Restrictions Urged

Omaha (AP)—The suggestions of Gov. Ralph Brooks for broadening of Social Security benefits and increasing of the earnings restriction have met with some opposition by a Washington official of the National Conference on the Aging.

The governor opened the state conference Monday with a talk in which he suggested that the tax base be broadened and that the earnings restriction on beneficiaries be increased.

The tax limitation is now $4,800 and the earnings restriction is $1,200 a year. Any eligible person making over $1,200 can not receive benefits.

In an afternoon talk, Robert W. Kean, chairman of the national advisory committee of the White House Conference to which Nebraska's suggestions will be sent, referred to both Brooks proposals.

Kean said suggestions for broadening the tax base should first be subjected to the question: How high can such taxes be raised before they create a burden on the worker?

Kean ended his talk by cautioning the state conference to consider carefully programs that might benefit only a small minority. Adoption of such programs, he said, might affect the well being of the majority of the aged.

Referring to the possibility of a higher wage base for Social Security, Gov. Brooks noted that in 1939, 97% of all covered workers had all of their wages counted in determining their benefits.

"Today, only 75% of all covered workers and only 55% of all full-time employees have their entire earnings covered. If the system were to take into account the actual earnings of the same proportion of those covered now as in 1939, the wage base would have to be increased to about $9,000 a year," he said.

Cites Cost Hike

"A worker with average wages in industry today receives only about 30% of his present earnings when he accepts Social Security benefits. In order to keep pace with the rising levels of living and to maintain confidence in the system on the part of those who are in the middle and upper wage ranges, this worker should receive 25 years from now, or sooner, at least 60% of his earnings on retirement."

In reference to rehabilitation of the physically handicapped who are past 65 years of age, the governor said this involves 27,000 persons in Nebraska.

"A revision in the basis for Hill-Burton grants to hospitals for rehabilitation purposes would be in order," he said. "At the same time study should be given to including rehabilitation services as an extension of outpatient provisions and benefits under present hospital insurance programs."

Hendricks Deleted From Car Deaths

The state Accident Records Bureau reported Monday it has dropped from its list of 1960 traffic death victims the name of Donald Hendricks, 25, of Stanton.

Hendricks was presumed to have perished June 19 when his car plunged into a flood washout on Nebraska 24 four miles west of Stanton but the body has not been recovered.

Accident records bureau director Tom Ryan said that because no death certificate has been filed in the case, the name was deleted from the fatality list.

Omaha Fugitive Nabbed During Son's Wedding

Springfield, Mass. (AP)—An Omaha man, a fugitive from justice in Nebraska for nearly 4 years, was arrested as he attended his son's wedding reception.

Hiram Dwooskin also known as Hiram Dee, 59, of Omaha, admitted his identity as a fugitive from justice when arraigned Monday before Dist. Judge Thomas J. O'Malley.

He was held in $5,000 bond and the case was continued until Sept. 1. Dwooskin indicated he would waive extradition to Nebraska to face a prison sentence on a conviction of taking money under false pretenses.

Clipping Was Tip Off

His arrest came through a news clipping that was mailed to Omaha. A Massachusetts news clipping service sent to the Omaha World-Herald a clipping telling the wedding plans of Joseph Y. Dwooskin, Hiram's son, a senior at Springfield College. The clippings said the bridegroom's parents would attend.

Omaha police then notified Springfield authorities. The wedding of the son and Miss Paula Robinovitz of Springfield went off as scheduled Sunday. Hiram was among the 100 guests at a reception.

No Resistance

Three Springfield detectives spotted him and made the arrest. The conservatively dressed, 5-foot-4 Dwooskin offered no resistance and freely admitted his identity.

He told police he had been living in New York for about 3 years. He declined to give an address, however.

Dwooskin was convicted in Omaha of taking $3,000 from an Omaha couple as payment for property he did not own. He was sentenced to 4 years in prison. His appeal to the state Supreme Court was denied. Then he went to Washington in an attempt to get the U.S. Supreme Court to overturn the sentence. He did not return to Nebraska.

Tube Holding Strontium 90 Said Missing

Manchester, Mass. (AP)—State police said Monday a tube of radioactive strontium 90 is missing from an atomic energy research laboratory in Manchester.

A general alarm bulletin was issued alerting fire and police agencies throughout the state. The material was described by police as "very dangerous."

The radioactive material is in a container 5 feet long by 5 and one half inches in diameter and contains 7 and one half millicuries of strontium 90.

The laboratory is owned by Dr. Edward S. Gillfillan an independent consulting engineer doing research in atomic energy.

Dr. Gillfillan said the material was in his laboratory and he had no idea how it disappeared.

"The material is harmless as long as it is kept in its container," he said.

Brick-Throwing Vandals Cause $450 In Damages

Nearly $450 worth of damage was done by vandals throwing bricks through windshields and a picture window over the weekend, police said Monday.

Robert Armstrong of 3415 So. 30th reported someone threw a brick through his $200 picture window early Sunday morning.

Bricks of the same type also were thrown through the windshields of cars belonging to Harold Abel of 1900 E. Manor and Alfred Hildenbrand of 1260 So. 46th. Abel estimated his loss at $115 and Hildenbrand set his damage at $130.

Appropriations Bill Due For Conference

Washington (AP)—A $4 billion public works appropriations bill was sent Monday to a conference committee to iron out differences between the Senate and House versions.

This was one of the first actions taken by the House as it settled down to legislative work in the new session of Congress.

As passed by the House the bill carried a total of $3,914,000,000. The Senate increased this to $4,030,000,000. These amounts compare with $4,004,000,000 recommended by President Eisenhower. Both versions contain funds for many water projects not in the Eisenhower budget.

A year ago President Eisenhower vetoed a similar bill because it contained new water projects. Congress then enacted the bill over his veto.

The Atomic Energy Commission comes in for the biggest slice of funds in the bill — $2,675,000,000. Army engineers would get $973,863,000 and the Reclamation Bureau $292,559,000.

It also contains funds for the Bonneville Power Administration, Tennessee Valley Authority and the Southeastern and Southwestern Power Administration.

The measure includes $530,000 provided in the Senate bill for the Gering Valley construction program in Nebraska as compared to nothing provided by the House: $662,000 in planning and construction funds provided by the Senate for Salt Creek and its tributaries, compared with $162,000 provided by the House for planning and $75,000 for the Shell Creek program offered in both versions of the bill.

Reclamation bureau projects included $1,500,000 for the Ainsworth project, $7,700,000 for the Farwell project, $5,439,000 for the Frenchman-Cambridge project, $821,000 for the Bostwick project in Nebraska and Kansas; and $252,800 for the planning of the Cedar Rapids division. These amounts were provided in both versions of the bill.

Both versions also call for $5,600,000 for stabilization of the Missouri River channel from Sioux City to Omaha and $2,800,000 for channel work from Omaha to Kansas City.

They provide $770,000 for work between Kensler's Bend to Sioux City; and $175,000 for agricultural levees between Plum Creek and Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Nixon Planning Southern Foray

Washington (AP) — Congress voted Monday to make it possible for the Democratic and Republican presidential nominees to debate each other face to face.

In the meantime, they struck out on their own in separate directions.

Headquarters for Republican nominee Richard M. Nixon confirmed word from the South that that Nixon would make a quick dash into Alabama and Georgia, Friday, speaking at Birmingham and Atlanta.

Headquarters for Democratic nominee John F. Kennedy said he plans to address a party fund-raising dinner in Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 6. Ohio, incidentally, went Republican in 1956, just as Georgia and Alabama went Democratic.

Lights In Reno Go Back On

FOREST FIRES UNCHECKED

Reno, Nev. (AP) — Swiftly spreading fires raced unchecked Monday through High Sierra forests after destroying 63,000 acres of timber and cutting electric power to 90,000 persons in a 15,000 square-mile area.

After 23 blackout hours, downtown Reno's lights went back on with the splicing of a 60,000 volt line. But users were warned to unplug refrigerators and other motor-driven apparatus to avoid an overload.

Power was restored to the entire area after 28 hours. Repairmen made their way through the fire-scarred mountains to patch a 120,000-volt line and the lights went on at 8:15 p.m., to the jubilant honking of auto horns in the Tahoe area.

Just In Time

The current began flowing just in time to replenish the nearly depleted water supplies—dependent on electric pumps—in the Reno area.

However, the California highway patrol alerted the historic summit communities of Emigrant Gap and Blue Canyon for possible evacuation as the Foresthill blaze neared U.S. Highway 40.

Officials said high winds could sweep the northern front of that fire to the highway. Emigrant Gap's permanent population of 150 is swollen by vacationers. It was a mountain top resting place for pioneers.

Curvaceous Marilyn Monroe, in town for a movie premiere that failed to come off, had lights in the seventh floor suite of her hotel because Hollywood studio men set up an auxiliary power unit.

Slowed

The famed Lake Tahoe resort area, jammed with hundreds of vacationists, was in a state of semi-paralysis.

Idled electric pumps caused a water shortage. Resorts with electric ranges couldn't cook. Refrigerators quit preserving food and a rush call was sent out for dry ice.

Many vacationers who wanted to go home couldn't. Electric-driven gasoline pumps shut down. Some enterprising operators hooked up gas-driven power lawnmower engines and doled out gasoline at the limit of $2 worth to a customer.

Unhalted

Reno's always busy gambling houses kept going with auxiliary generators.

Harold's Club finally disgorged 300 automobiles stranded in its 5-story pigeon-hole parking garage after the elevator went dead.

The 3 big fires burned out some 20 homes since Saturday in small mountain communities but no large resort centers have been affected.

Traveled

Flames starting near Donner Lake in the Donner pass area burned more than 24,000 acres. The fire swept out of Tahoe National Forest into Toiyabe National Forest. Its front was at Dog Canyon north of Verdi, a small town 10 miles west of Reno.

The heat was so intense and the danger so great that headquarters in Toiyabe National Forest reported no men were being committed against it. A broadcast said there was too great risk of men being trapped in flareups back of the fire front.

ington with members of the North Carolina Press Association Tuesday afternoon, make a speech in Alexandria, Va., Wednesday night, and address a Zionist gathering in New York Thursday night.

Nixon's apparently sudden decision to go into Georgia and Alabama followed his successful invasion of North Carolina — at Greensboro — last week. Aides said he is getting many requests to speak in the once solidly Democratic South.

The possibility, or strong probability, that Nixon and Kennedy will debate face to face on radio-TV came when Congress finished action on a bill to free broadcasters of the obligation to provide equal time to all candidates.

Herbert G. Klein, for Nixon, said representatives of the two major candidates are trying to work out details for joint appearances.

Pierre Salinger, for Kennedy, said there is general agreement there will be 3 to 5 programs but it has not been decided whether they will be straight debates between the two candidates, joint news conferences or a combination of both.

Klein also told a news conference that Nixon differs with Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson on some points but regards him as "a man of great integrity."

Benson, who has become considerable of an issue, was defended in the Senate by Sen. Wallace F. Bennett (R-Utah). Picturing the secretary as a man struggling against unfair odds, Bennett said:

"Congress put the secretary in a strait jacket and then in effect told him to chin himself."

And, 5 months before the Eisenhower administration is due to finish its work and leave Washington, a "farewell reception" was announced for the President and members of his cabinet.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate Republican leader, invited Republican members of the Senate to attend the reception next Wednesday night at a downtown hotel. The Nixons were also invited.

New B58 Lands At LAFB

The first landing of a newly-developed B58 at LAFB occurred Monday when the delta-winged Hustler made an unscheduled landing due to minor maintenance difficulties. The Hustler and crew (from left) are Capt. Raymond Wagener, defensive system operator; Capt. William L. Polhemus, navigator-bombardier, formerly based at LAFB; and Maj. Henry Deuschendorf, aircraft commander, were on a mission from Carswell. The plane, which is 97 feet long and has a delta wing span of 57 feet, carries its payload in a pod suspended beneath the fuselage. It has a thrust of 10,000 lbs. compared to the 6,000 lb. thrust of the B47. It is one of the first 12 B58's received by the Strategic Air Command Aug. 1. SAC is scheduled to receive 3 of the new planes, one at Carswell, another at Bunker Hill Air Force Base, Ind., and another as yet unannounced. They will replace some of SAC's B47's, but none at the Lincoln Base. The aircraft travels at twice the speed of sound, and at altitudes of 60,000 feet. It can also be re-fueled in flight and costs about $17 million.

Activity Is At Fever Pitch On Eve Of Lancaster Fair

By Glenn Kreuscher
Farm Editor

That spurt in activity throughout Lancaster county Monday was attributed to preparations for the county fair.

Assembling entries, giving that calf a last washing, collecting the buckets, feed and equipment to take care of the livestock—it took the whole family in many an instance working late Monday evening to get ready for the Tuesday trip to the fair.

Fair superintendents expected an increase in practically all departments.

New Additions

Adding size to the 1960 Lancaster County Fair will be a number of departments that previously have entered their entries at the state fair joining the county show.

Included in this list are ponies, poultry, home products, fruits, textiles and fine arts.

A special feature of the 1960 county fair will be the 4-H Horse and Open Class Pony Show to be held Tuesday evening in the State Fair Coliseum.

Judging

Judging of all Home Economics and Agricultural entries starts at 1 p.m. Tuesday.

The sheep, swine and dairy show will be held Wednesday.

The 4-H beef show will be judged Thursday morning.

The last activity of the fair will be the 4-H club sale scheduled for Friday morning at 10 a.m.

Selection Of 4-H Crop Judging Team Revealed

Selection of members of the Lancaster County 4-H Crop Judging team was announced by Emery Nelson, County Extension Agent.

Top judge for Lancaster County is Dale Hutchinson of Waverly. Rodger Damrow of Roca, Darrell Siekmann and Garry Erskine of Waverly, are the other team members.

The team will represent Lancaster County in the State Crop Judging Contest to be held Sept. 3 at the State Fair.

Dr. Steinman, Noted Bridge Designer, Dies

New York (AP) — Dr. David Bernard Steinman, 73, who designed 400 bridges but considered the 77-year-old Brooklyn Bridge the most beautiful in the world, died here.

Dr. Steinman, the father of Dr. John Steinman of Lincoln, had been a bridge designer for half a century, and from 1948 to 1954 was in charge of reconstruction of Brooklyn Bridge.

Among his other achievements were the largest bridge in South America — a suspension span at Florianopolis, Brazil; the longest cantilever span in the United States — the Carqueinez Strait Bridge in California; and the Mackinac Bridge joining the upper and lower peninsulas of Michigan, the longest in the world from one cable anchorage to the other.

From 1941 to 1953 Dr. Steinman was a government consultant on military bridges. He also wrote 16 technical books on his subject and 4 others for popular consumption.

BIGGEST WISH OF PEOPLE IN HELL IS A POST OFFICE

Hell, Mich. (AP) — There are a lot of things the people in Hell might wish for, but at the moment, it happens to be a post office.

The 200-plus people who live in this tiny lakeside resort community have asked Rep. Charles E. Chamberlain (R-Mich) to help them get a postal sub-station.

Object: postmark Hell.

Contrary to popular belief, Hell is really no more than just a collection of summer cottages, a restaurant and a handful of other small businesses, located on Hi-land lake, 50 miles northwest of Detroit.

Not On Map

It has no government of its own and doesn't appear on any but the most detailed of state maps.

There is a myriad of stories—all unconfirmed—about how the place got its name (a sample: "It was hell watchin' those men climbin' up the hill from the still.") but old-timers say it has been called Hell for over 100 years.

The name has spawned countless humorous incidents, the latest being the recent transfer of a Michigan Highway Dept. man from Hell to Paradise, Mich.

Fame Spread

Ever since the press and the U.S. Weather Bureau ("it was cold today in Hell") discovered Hell a few years ago, its fame has spread far and wide and brought tourists by the score.

They drive miles out of their way over secondary roads for the sheer satisfaction of being able to boast to their friends back home: "I've been to Hell."

At the ranch grill, the one and only restaurant in town, proprietor Al Dewey does a brisk business in postcards.

Disappointment

But a major disappointment confronts the tourist who drives all the way to Hell to mail a postcard as proof that he's been there, for it will bear the postmark of the nearest with a post office.

Somehow, Pinckney, Mich., doesn't have the charm of Hell.

Chamberlain promised his constituents he'd discuss the postal substation request with Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield.

Chances look good for two reasons: 1, Summerfield is a Michigan man, and 2, granting of the request would enable the U.S. postal service to say, in truth: "We deliver anywhere."

Citizen Council On Higher Education Is Planned

A 40-member lay citizens council on higher education will be appointed in Nebraska next month by a committee of state senators currently studying higher education problems.

The plan was disclosed Monday by Dr. Jack W. Rodgers, research director for the legislative council.

The primary function of the citizens' group will be to keep abreast of the findings about colleges and universities in the state as revealed by research by Dr. Lyman A. Glenn and his staff.

To Make Study

Dr. Glenn has been employed by the Legislative Council Committee on Higher Education to make a statewide study as authorized by the 1959 Legislature.

State Sen. Richard D. Marvel of Hastings, chairman of the legislative committee, said the senators and Dr. Glenn feel that a lay group of leading citizens, if well informed on educational developments, can do much to stimulate thinking, planning and action on the state's higher education problems.

Each senator on the committee will nominate 5 persons to the committee and the executive committee will appoint 5 additional citizens at large.

Selection Basis

Selected for the committee, the announcement said, will be persons who:

- Have an abiding interest in higher education and its welfare.
- Have stature in their own communities and be able to command respect throughout the state.

—Feel obligated to take a leadership role in relation to higher education affairs in the future.

Members of the legislative committee, besides Sen. Marvel, include Sens. Norman A. Otto, Ray C. Simmons, David D. Tews, Edwin T. McHugh, J. O. Peck and William Moulton.

Tuttle Gets 60 Days On Bad Check Charge

McCook (UPI)—Ray Tuttle, 43, Lincoln, pleaded guilty Monday to no-fund check charges and was sentenced by District Judge Victor Westmark to 60 days in the Red Willow County jail.

Clair Hanson, 32, Midland, S.D., who pleaded guilty to similar charges, was given a suspended sentence. The case involved a $58 check written by Tuttle which Hanson attempted to pass at a supermarket here.

$37 Million Generating Plant Seen

15-Year Power Program Told

Sioux Falls, S.D. (AP)—Plans for generating plants and transmission lines costing about $295.3 million during the next 15 years were discussed at a meeting of the Midwest Electric Consumers Assn. here Monday.

Included in the plan, for immediate construction is a 200,000 kilowatt steam generating plant to cost $37 million and be built near Garrison Dam in North Dakota. The plant would be financed by an REA loan. Ken Holm, executive secretary of the association, said the site was chosen because of adequate water, lignite coal and transmission facilities.

He said the overall plans are for plants which will have 1,250,000 kilowatts of generating capacity and a related transmission system.

He said co-operatives and municipalities of North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Montana, Wyoming and Colorado could be supplied by the ultimate system being proposed.

Holm emphasized that the plans for all units and their location and other details are subject to further investigation and engineering.

Other proposed construction in the long-range program include:

- 1967—A 200,000 kw power plant near Vermillion, S.D., and transmission lines to Bureau of Reclamation system, $39,800,000.
- 1969—A second 200,000 kw plant at Garrison and 345 kv line from Garrison to Watertown, S.D., $79,900,000.
- 1970—A 230 kv line from Fargo, N.D., to Cohasset, Minn., $4,700,000.
- 1971—Two 25,000 kw gas turbines for peaking at Cohasset and two 25,000 kw gas turbines in southern Minnesota or Iowa plus a 230 kv line from Grand Forks, N.D., to Humboldt, Ia., $15,700,000.
- 1973—A third 200,000 kw lignite power plant at Garrison and extension of the 340 kv line from Watertown to Hinton, Iowa, $51,300,000.
- 1973—A 230 kv line from Hinton to Humboldt, Iowa, $3,100,000.
- 1974—A 230 kv transmission line from Garrison by way of Devils Lake, N.D., to Grand Forks and building of a 50,000 kw peaking plant possibly around Creston, Iowa, $11,800,000.
- 1975—A 300,000 kw nuclear plant at Vermillion next to the existing power plant, $51 million.

Col. Gus Peters Recovering From Crash Injuries

Ft. Bragg, N.C. (AP)—A Lincoln, Neb., colonel has been removed from the serious list at an Army hospital where he is recovering from injuries received in a helicopter crash.

He is Col. Gus S. Peters, commander of the 1st Airborne Battle Group, who was one of 6 occupants of the helicopter which crashed during joint Army-Air Force war games.

Col. Peters, a former Lincoln Star staff member, is a graduate of the University of Nebraska, where he majored in journalism and was a football guard.

In 1958 he was recognized for outstanding service as chief of the Infantry School's Editorial and Pictorial Office at Fort Benning, Ga.

Church, School Low Bidders Told

St. Paul (AP)—Three Grand Island firms have been announced as apparent low bidders for the construction of a new parochial school for Sts. Peter and Paul Catholic Church here. The combined bids were about $210,000, which is below the architect's estimate of $230,000.

The firms are Melkus-Greer, O'Hara Plumbing Co., and Lawrence Electric. Boyer, Bickup and Wickstrom of Omaha are the architects.

Transcripts Filed In 2 Scotts Bluff Co. Court Cases

Transcripts of prior proceedings were filed with the State Supreme Court Monday in appeals of two cases from the Scotts Bluff County District Court.

John Baum has appealed from a verdict against him in a suit which he brought against Scotts Bluff County and the Gering-Fort Laramie Irrigation District. Baum asked damages from alleged 1958 flooding resulting from construction of a dam. A jury in May found for the county and irrigation district.

In the second case, Leo Beebe and Ida May Beebe appealed to the high court after District Judge R. M. Van Steenberg last May dissolved a restraining order and temporary injunction obtained by the Beebes earlier against Alex Reichert. The Beebes contended Reichert was constructing a dike on Beebe property.

Dear Abby-- Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I found a note under the windshield wiper of my car this morning. It said, "Ok, Miss Hard-To-Get, let's get acquainted. How about dinner next Saturday night?"

It was written by my downstairs neighbor. He's an attractive bachelor who moved into this building recently. My landlord said he was interested in meeting me. (I am 26 and single.) Is it proper to accept an invitation of this kind?

"MISS HARD TO MEET"

DEAR MISS: If you want to meet him (and apparently you do) ask your landlord to introduce you. But don't accept a dinner invitation with him via your windshield wiper. He could be just a big drip who goes off the deep end for anything in skirts.

DEAR ABBY: Can you settle an argument for us? I had a form to fill out in which many questions were asked. One was "NATIONALITY?" Since I was born in New York, I put down "AMERICAN".

A friend said the only people who could say they were AMERICANS were the AMERICAN INDIANS. He asked where my parents were born. I told him Poland. Then he said my nationality was POLISH! I told him the question was not "DESCENT?" but "NATIONALITY?" He said what they really wanted to know was, "were my people Japanese, Italian, Russian, and so forth," and no matter where an Italian or Japanese was born, he is still Italian or Japanese. Who was right?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: One belongs to a nation by "birth" or "naturalization," according to Webster's definition. So having been born in America, you are an American. According to law, if a cat has kittens in an oven, they are biscuits.

DEAR ABBY: I was shocked to read in your column a letter signed "THROUGH THE MILL," which read, "I am not the sort of person who gives her baby away... even an animal wouldn't do that."

I went "through the mill" when I was 16. I gave my baby away because I had nothing to offer her. I was unwed and alone. An adoption agency found my baby a good home with fine parents. I was a young girl who made a bad mistake, but I knew I had my life before me. Any mother who has given her baby away knows that it is harder to give up a child than to keep it. And far less selfish. I know in my heart that I did the right thing and I have never been sorry. And every girl who has been "through the mill" knows I speak the truth.

ALSO THROUGH THE MILL

DEAR ABBY: That dog fight you had in your column recently brings to mind a wonderful quote by Mark Twain. "If you pick up a hungry dog and feed him he will not bite you. That is the principal difference between man and dog."

Respectfully submitted by Opening lead — king of spades.

Most books on the play of the cards are addressed to the vast audience of intermediate (or lesser) players, and concern themselves chiefly with the straight technique of good card play.

Generally absent from these books are the subtle practices indulged in by expert players, who add to their technical knowledge the ability to improvise and draw startling inferences from the great variety of situations that may arise.

Now comes Master Play by Terence Reese, the great English star, who sets forth in lucid style the thinking that goes on behind the scenes when the expert engages a problem. It is a welcome addition to the literature of bridge.

In the chapter on trump control appears the accompanying hand, which demonstrates how declarer guards against a possible bad trump break.

Suppose declarer wins the spade and cashes the A-K of hearts, as many players would, and discovers that trumps are divided 4-1 instead of 3-2.

Now, against good defense, South is in bad shape, because if he runs four rounds of diamonds, West refuses to ruff, and if the king of clubs is then led, West takes the ace, draws trumps, and takes the rest of the tricks for down three — 300 points.

As Reese points out, South should be willing to lose two trumps and a club, and should play accordingly. He wins the spade lead and cashes the king of hearts. He then stops playing hearts because he does not dare lose control of trumps in case the suit is divided 4-1.

Declarer, instead, plays three rounds of diamonds, disposing of his spade loser. It does not matter to South if one of the defenders ruffs the third diamond, whether the trumps are divided 4-1 or 3-2.

At most, he will lose three tricks. In the actual case, whether West ruffs or not, the contract is assured. If West trumps and returns a spade, South ruffs, cashes the heart ace, and then forces out the ace of clubs. If West does not trump, South attacks clubs before leading hearts again.

To Entertain

Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will entertain a group of rushees on Wednesday evening at miniature golf followed by a watermelon feed at Bethany Park.

Mrs. Louis Meinecke is in charge of party arrangements, and the guests also will include transfer members of the sorority who are new residents in Lincoln.

TALK Altrusa Board Meeting Held

—There is talk of this and that this morning and the chatter involves guests who have just arrived—guests who already have returned home—a party, and this and that.

Our guest in the news is Mrs. Harry Pecha of San Bernardino, Calif., who arrived last week for a visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore F. Randolph—and to attend the wedding of Miss Judy Mueller and Roger Hall, Jr., on Sept. 23.

—Leaving on Sunday to return to their home in Falls Church, Va., were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Rankin and their daughter, Sara, who stopped in Lincoln for a very brief visit with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Rankin, after a holiday spent at their ranch near Ft. Pierre, S.D.

—And mention of Mrs. Roger Rankin, the former Ruthie Prochaska, reminds us that she was a Monday morning hostess when she entertained a group of her Delta Gamma sisters, at a coffee.

—Must add some travelers to the news this aye—Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Rucklos and their daughter, Fredericka, are leaving today for Pelican Lake, Minn., where they will spend several days as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Minier at the Miner's summer home.

—There is to be a shot-gun tee-off at about 8:15 o'clock this morning at the Lincoln Country Club when the LCC feminine golfers and their guests begin a morning of play. We understand that the early birds include those who will play 18 holes, and that the nine-holers will have a later starting time.

We hear that the golfers will be offered refreshment along the way, and in charge of the iced lemonade project will be Mrs. Alfred Adams, Mrs. Arch Bailey and Mrs. Dale Tinstman.

Serving for hostesses for the 18 holes group will be Mrs. Robert Stein and Mrs. Oliver Magee, while Mrs. Willard Atwell will do the hostess honors for the nine-holes group.

At a planning session on Friday evening, the members of the board of the Altrusa Club of Lincoln set programs and projects for the organization's new club year.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Phyllis Winkelman, president of Altrusa, and among those attending were (from the left, seated) Mrs. Cloud Smith; Mrs. Frances Watters; Miss Ruth Frahm, recording secretary; and (standing) Mrs. Willard Dunigan; Miss Norma Carpenter; Mrs. Winkelman, president; Mrs. W. J. Wells, vice president; and Mrs. Loren Lamborn. Not pictured are Miss Verneda Whitney, treasurer; Mrs.

Thelma Hodder and Miss Mildred Wieland, directors.

Interested in vocational education, the organization plans to continue its grants-in-aid to deserving students, and also will continue research and aid for its philanthropic project of assisting senior citizens of the community.

Committee chairmen for the year will include Mrs. Willard Dunigan, program coordination; Mrs. Loren Lamborn, information committee; Miss Helen Stacy, international relations and grants-in-aid; Miss Norma Carpenter, public affairs; Mrs. Cloud Smith, vocational information; Miss Jeanette Mathiesen, Miss Clara Miskell, courtesy; Miss Edith Pembroke, publicity; Dr. Janet Palmer, senior citizens committee; Mrs. Roy Sheaff, classification and membership; and Miss Virginia Zimmer, scrapbook.

From Our Sandwich Kitchen

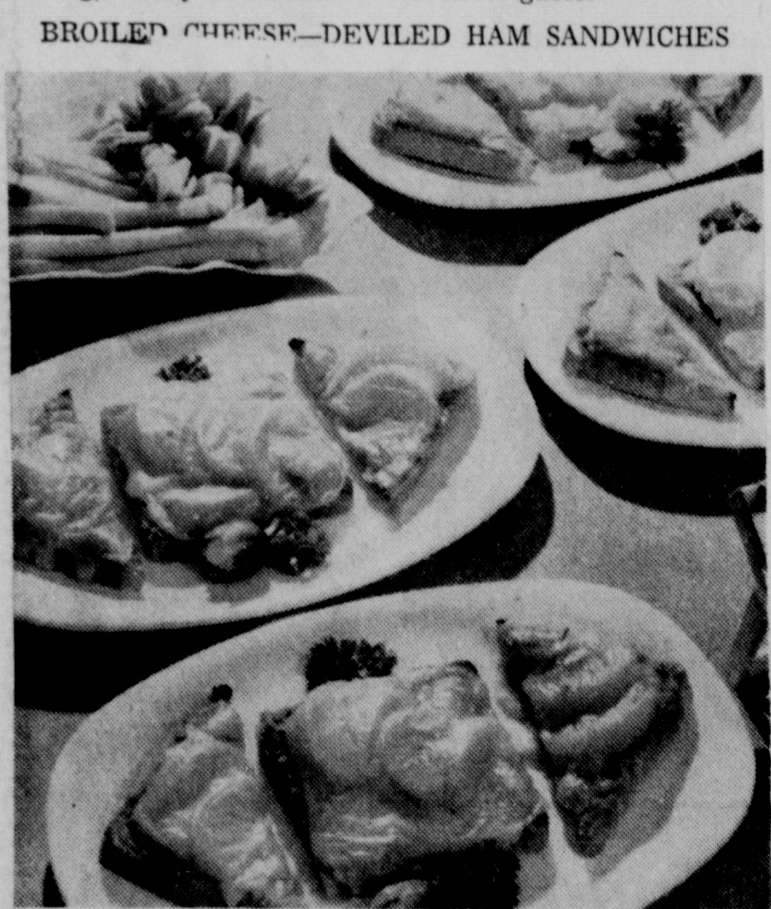

Little did the Earl of Sandwich know that when he shouted "bring me roast beef between two slices of bread" that his name would be one of the best known in history. It is on every printed menu, in every cook book, and it has become a challenge to almost every homemaker.

A sandwich may be little or big, sturdy or delicate—an entire meal in itself, or merely an appetizer—but it still remains a sandwich.

And this is the time for sandwiches—the end of summer—the end of ideas for the cook in the household—and the end of hearty appetites for summer foods.

Try this on your family—for lunch—for supper—and even for guests—

8 slices enriched sandwich bread
Butter or margarine, softened
3 2½-ounce cans deviled ham (about ¾ cup)
½ cup chopped walnuts

Spread bread slices with butter or margarine. Combine deviled ham, walnuts, brown sugar, salt and pepper. Spread mixture evenly over buttered slices. Arrange about 4 peach slices on each bread slice. Top with slice of cheese. Heat under broiler until cheese is melted and

1 tablespoon brown sugar
Dash salt
Dash pepper
1½ cups sliced peaches, well-drained (1-pound can)
8 slices processed American cheese (8 ounces)

lightly browned. Cut 4 slices diagonally into halves. For each sandwich, serve whole slice in center with 2 halves on opposite sides. Garnish with olives and parsley. Makes 4 sandwiches. A bit fancier, but equally nutritious is this one:

CHICKEN MERINGUE SANDWICH

12 slices enriched bread
Butter
1 10½-ounce can condensed cream of chicken soup (about 1½ cups)
¾ cup water
¾ cup chopped onion

Spread bread with butter; place 6 slices in greased shallow baking pan, 9"x13", buttered side up. Combine soup, water, onion, rosemary and egg yolks. Bring just to boiling, and simmer until slightly thickened. Arrange diced chicken over bread slices in pan, and cover with remaining bread slices, buttered side down. Pour soup mixture over sandwiches. Beat egg whites until foamy, add salt, and beat until stiff. Pile individual meringues on each sandwich. Sprinkle with chopped nuts. Bake in slow oven (325°F.) 15 to 20 minutes or until delicately browned. Makes 6 sandwiches.

Or this one—

Shrimp Duo Sandwich

1 cup chopped cooked shrimp (4½-ounce can)
½ cup finely chopped green onions
½ cup chopped pitted ripe olives
½ cup mayonnaise
2 3-ounce packages cream cheese and chives, softened

Butter or margarine
18 slices enriched sandwich bread
Lettuce leaves

Combine shrimp, onion, olives and mayonnaise. Mix well. Spread butter or margarine on 12 slices bread. Spread shrimp mixture on 6 slices. Cover with 6 slices bread buttered side down. Place lettuce leaf on top. Spread remaining 6 slices of bread with softened cheese. Place over lettuce, cheese side down to close sandwich. Cut sandwich in half diagonally. Makes 6 sandwiches.

THROW-THem-NOT

Our thanks to Mr. Robert Olson, a Wisconsin reader, for a sweet thought. Next time someone sends you a bouquet containing Forget-Me-Nots, don't toss away the faded blue blossoms. If stems remain in water long enough, they'll root. You can transport them to your garden and plant them where it's damp and shady. They'll bring you pleasure for many a day!

MEMORY-MAKERS

Travelers wending their way to Little Rock, Ark., are greeted by a lovely sight. New motor hotel (with "all-gas" conveniences inside) is agleam with gaslites outside! Forty gas lamps ring the motel; 100 more light pathways and passages. A quartet of brilliant Hawaiian-style gas flares light up the sunken patio. You, too, can kindle extra hospitality... ask your local gas company or gas appliance dealer about gaslites for your home.

CHAMELEON EYES

See what the makers of "contact lenses" suggest now! If you don't like your natural eye-shade, you can change the color! It's possible to own green eyes for green frocks, brown for earthy shades, etc. Some girls, they say, choose whole "wardrobes." (Wouldn't that amaze Roger Bacon, 13th Century gent who first suggested lenses to assist eyesight?)

TWEEZER PLEASER

Mrs. Merlin Willett, Ames, Ia., keeps tweezers in her sewing-machine drawer. When there are stitches to rip, the tweezers tease out tiny threads in no time!

PROMOTING PROGRESS

Northern Natural Gas Company "pipes" another kind of progress to our Northern Plains states! Through this company's Area Development Program, they've catalogued our region's industrial resources, facilities and equipment. This information is available to industries looking for plant locations in this region, or industries with "choice" contracts to be let. This leads to more jobs, more prosperity — and more reason than ever to be glad natural gas is here! It's brought to your home by your local gas company.

NICE, ICED AND SPICED

Six overheated August guests will praise this salad idea: Peel and coarsely chop four large tomatoes. Combine with 2 tsp. salt, 1 tsp. mixed Italian seasoning (or salad dressing mix), ½ tsp. pepper, ½ tsp. powdered rosemary, ½ tsp. thyme. Transfer mixture to ice-tray and freeze. Just before dinner, pop it into a bowl and beat just till mushy. Heap in lettuce cups; set in gas refrigerator while you mix dressing: dollops of sour cream, beaten with crumbled bleu cheese.

Parties Honor Two Autumn Brides Elect

In pre-nuptial courtesy to a September bride-elect, Miss Nancy Johnson, Mrs. E. C. Mouden was hostess at her home on Saturday evening. A kitchen shower was presented to the honoree, and the evening hours

Honoring, Miss Charlotte Douglas on Saturday evening was her sister, Miss Sharon Douglas, who entertained a group of friends and Gamma Phi Beta sorority sisters of the September bride-elect at a dessert supper at Cotner Terrace.

The wedding of Miss Douglas and her fiancé, Harold Kelley, will take place on Friday, Sept. 2, at the Presbyterian-Congregational Chapel on the University of Nebraska campus.

TV Is Aid To Education

At a joint committee meeting in Chicago last week, officers of the National Education Association and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers endorsed TV as an educational tool.

The joint committee's annual meeting, held at the national PTA headquarters with Paul J. Misner, superintendent of Glencoe, Ill., schools as chairman, also recommended greater emphasis on the use of radio, films, filmstrips and electronic recordings in education.

Among those attending the meeting was Dr. Galen Saylor, Lincoln, faculty member of the University of Nebraska Teachers College and treasurer of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

We Hear That

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Harney and their daughters, Kathy and Patti, returned home Thursday from a week's vacation trip to Cynthia, Ky., and other southern states including Tennessee and Arkansas. In Cynthia, they were the houseguests of Mr. Harney's mother, Mrs. H. L. Harney.

Afternoon Wedding

MR. AND MRS. NORMAN MERLE GIESEKER

For the wedding of Miss Mary Ellen Berger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Berger of Upland, and Norman Merle Gieseke, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Gieseke of Lincoln, which took place Sunday afternoon, Aug. 14, white gladioli and blue-tinted majestic daisies appointed the chancel of the Park Hill Methodist Church in Denver.

Frocked in blue chiffon over taffeta with matching head bows, and carrying nosegays of white feathered carnations, were Miss Vivian Berger of Lincoln, as her sister's maid of honor; the bridesmatron, Mrs. Lyle Heckenlively of Holdrege; and Miss Carolyn Berger of Upland, also a sister of the bride, who lighted the candles.

Barton O. Lewis of Lincoln served Mr. Gieseke as best man, and seating the guests were Richard Angell, Gerald Dorsey and Ronald Painter, all of Denver.

The bride wore for her wedding a gown of imported Chantilly lace in traditional white. The sculptured bodice was designed with long sleeves and a V neckline edged with natural scallops of the lace, which were repeated at the hem of the flaring, waltz-length skirt. Her veil of silk illusion was held by a pearl crown, and she carried a cascade of white roses and ivy.

Mr. and Mrs. Gieseke, both graduates of the University of Nebraska, will make their home in Denver. The bride is a member of the faculty of the Denver schools.

Fun News In Suburbia

EASTRIDGE

Arriving home Thursday from a two-week holiday in Dallas was Mr. Myrtle Erickson. Mrs. Erickson was the houseguest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. V. T. Schlosser, and her grandson, Trey.

Guests in the suburb during the week end were Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Carlson and their daughter, Candy. The Carlsons, who now reside in Carlsbad, Calif., formerly lived at 800 Lyncrest Dr. in Eastridge. During their stay in Lincoln, they were the houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. Gale Cratsenberg.

The neighbors along Dale Drive were the guests at a coffee Thursday morning given by Mrs. Howard W. Olson at her home. The event was a welcome-to-the-neighborhood for Mrs. Olson's niece, Mrs. Donald Treadway, who with her husband moved into the home at 727 Dale Dr. the middle part of July.

Then we heard that Mr. and Mrs. Ed Potter and their son, Kirk, were in Lincoln last week for a short stay. They were the houseguests of Mrs. Potter's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Smith.

And Monday night, Aug. 15, the Potters who reside in Burlington, Ia., were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Ewing.

Moving into their home at 350 Eastridge recently were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Rosenberg and their children, four year-old Hilde and 16 month-old Howard. The Rosenbergs family formerly resided at 1946 So. Cotner.

Understand that some additional new residents in Eastridge are Mr. and Mrs. Glenn I. Anderson Jr. and their sons, 11 year-old Gregg and Gary who is nine years old. Formerly living at 1505 So. 40th, the Anderson family moved into the house at 5921 Margo Dr. a week ago.

Another change for your address book—Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Engel and their daughter are now living at 8503 Grand Ave., in Omaha. And the occupants of the former Engel residence at 536 Mulder Dr. are Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne F. Miller. The Millers moved last week from their former address at 3630 B.

Heard from Capt. and Mrs. Wilford Campbell that their vacation might be termed a success as they reported the fishing was good at Shebandowan Lake in Canada. Also enjoying the good catch were the Campbell children including Linda, Douglas, Nancy, and Jeanette.

Then we heard about visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard W. Neider. Their houseguests for the past two weeks have been Mr. Neider's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Scott, and their daughters, Jane and Sally. The Scott family will be leaving the Neider home tomorrow to return to Lakewood, Calif.

During the visit here, Mr. and Mrs. Neider entertained at a dinner at home on Sunday. In addition to the Scott family, the guests included Mr. Neider's father, L. L. Neider, of Plymouth, and Mrs. Neider's mother, Mrs. Ralph Humphreys, of Beatrice.

One final item this morning concerns Miss Ann Kuykendall, daughter of Mrs. Esther Kuykendall. Ann, who has been attending Cottey College in Nevada, Mo., the past two years, will be entering the University of Nebraska this fall when classes resume in a few weeks.

August Jokes

When Big 8 football coaches gather in August, they play a Jekell and Hyde role — pessimistic toward the sportswriters and fun-loving wits toward the alumni.
The alums love to laugh with the coaches in August, too. Later in the season the coaches are crying real tears and the alums are laughing at them.
Most of the coaches get away with the same cracks year after year, but there are always a few new ones at the Kansas City luncheon.
Clay Stapleton of Iowa State and newcomer Doug Weaver of Kansas State were the top laugh-getters this year, but all hands scored in some fashion. Try these:
Stapleton — "As if I didn't have enough pressure already, they (alums) bought me an insurance policy like Dan Devine's (Missouri). Now I can never relax. If I relax, I might lose a prospect, then a game, then my job and then my insurance."
Weaver — "When I was an assistant at Missouri, I always wondered what went on at these meetings. I was happy to learn that little or nothing transpires... I also found out that the funnier coaches have long since gone... I'd like to thank the sportswriters for their vote of confidence in picking me 8th... I've always spoken highly of them."
Cliff Speegle of Oklahoma State — "It was 33 years ago that a faculty representative came out of a Big 6 meeting and announced it would just be a matter of time before Oklahoma State was admitted to the conference. I'm glad he lived long enough to see it."
Jack Mitchell of Kansas — "Our passing game has been very poor. I don't know whether the trouble is with the receivers or the throwers. But I do know fault isn't the coaches'."

Dan Devine of Missouri — "I used to worry about not having enough insurance for my wife, but now I worry about having too much... You fans will see the best football in the country this fall — if Big 8 teams don't play it, our opponents will."
Gomer Jones of Oklahoma — "Bud Wilkinson's boy, Jay, is going to Duke, but no one has ever said why. The real reason is that we were afraid a lot of people might be concerned about the OU quarterback sleeping with the coach... During 13 years of coaching with Bud, we've never known this early just what kind of a team we'd really have. But this year we know—not a very good one."
Bill Jennings of Nebraska — "I've always been amazed at the turnout for these luncheons, but I think the reason for it is because you never see the same show twice... Age is a funny thing, Jack Kennedy and I are both 42. Some say he's too young for his job—and some folks in Nebraska say I'm too old for mine."

Show Biz

Overheard songstress Peggy King being interviewed at the next table in a KC beanery. For those who want all the news, I can report she has opinions. Like: "Eisenhower is the worst president since Grant... I'm a Democrat and the only pictures we ever had in our house were one of Jesus and one of FDR... Most disillusioning thing about my business is going on shows with older stars that I used to idolize—and have them make passes at me..."

Close Touch

Reaves Peters, Big 8 executive director, believes in keeping posted on the operation. He's currently overseas as an Olympic official and had to miss the press conference. Just to keep in touch, he called Friday via transatlantic phone from Athens, Greece to find out if all went well. Only trouble was that he got mixed up on the time differential — and called before the meetings started.

Lincoln Rallies For 10-4 Victory; 2,113 Elks Night Fans See Action

By Don Bryant

There was plenty of action at Sherman Field Monday as 2,113 fans celebrated Elks Night in rousing fashion. The Lincoln Chiefs spotted Green Bay 4 runs in the first inning and then roared back for a 10-4 decision. Adding excitement to the program were such things as:
-A 2-run homer by Dodger Dick Smith which helped the Dodgers spurt, 4-0 in the first.
-A rousing 4th inning which saw the Chiefs tally 5 times to take the lead, 6-4.
-A similar 7th inning with Lincoln plating 4 more.
-A fine pitching job by starter Ron Woods, who sparked after his first-inning let-down until he pulled a hamstring muscle in the 7th.
-A nifty relief stint by Dan

Osinski, who blanked the Dodgers from the 7th to save Woods' 15th win of the season.
-A mild rhabarb in the Lincoln 7th when Don Buford bunted, appeared safe on an error as Dodger reliever Leo Giannacchini tossed the ball off his helmet, but was called out for running out of the baseline.
-The same clubs tangle again tonight at Sherman Field, commencing at 8 p.m. It will be the last Ladies Night of the season. Al Madigan (6-7) will pitch for the Chiefs against Green Bay's Filomeno Ortego (10-8).
-All told, the Chiefs wound up with 10 hits—all in spurts—Monday. They got one in the first, 4 in the 4th and 7th, and one in the 8th. After the Dodgers' big first, the Chiefs got a singleton back in the home half with the help of an error.

-In the 4th they unloaded on starter Terry Barber, sending him to the showers and his 8th defeat against 8 wins. A pair of walks, singles by Al Bullock and Woods—Ron's hit drove in 2 runs and tied it at 4-4—and doubles by Al Weiss and Dean Look had the home folks cheering.
-Woods, who fanned 9, faltered in the 7th after injuring his leg and skipper Ira Hutchinson rushed in Osinski. The Big O walked Fran Boniar to load the bases, but whiffed Smith to end the last Dodger threat.
-Osinski walked only one and struck out 5 in the final two frames.
-Lincoln killed any Green

Bay comeback hopes in the 7th by tagging Giannacchini with ease. After Leo hit Dean Look—following the strange out registered by Buford—Manly Johnston, Pug Williamson and Chuck Lindstrom all ripped singles to center, making it 8-4.
-Gary Johnson supplied an extra dose of frosting by lashing a 2-run triple.
-Smoke Signals... Glenn Burnett, exalted ruler of Lincoln Elks Lodge No. 80, presented a check to Chiefs executive veep Vaulx Risser... Lincoln's already worn pitching staff was depleted Monday when Hub Winton was recalled by Charleston of the Sally League to replace 1959 Chief Joel Hoerner, who is hurt... Bob Wade, a rookie righthander, was added to the Chiefs' roster. He warmed up Monday night, but when Woods got hurt Hutch called on The Big O, who made his 4th appearance in 4 days... AWOL after the game was the city bus.

350 Prepsters Sweating As Football Drills Start

By Larry Novicki
Nearly 350 Lincoln prep football hopefuls sweated in unison Monday as the Capital City's 4 high school teams opened pre-season practice under the torrid August sun. Two-a-day sessions are slated until school starts.
Northeast and Southeast inaugurate the 1960 campaign when they tangle at the Oval Sept. 9. Lincoln High opens at Omaha Central the next night, and Pius X entertains Omaha Holy Name the 17th.
The 4 teams will be out to improve upon a 22-15-1 aggregate season last year—one of the best in Lincoln for several years.
At Lincoln High, 95 reported to coach Jim Sommers.

Eight lettermen, including 4 regulars, were back. Basyl Hulewicz, standout lineman in 1959, hadn't checked in yet.
Returnees included speedy fullback Bobby Williams, an All-City choice last year, and Gary Haas, tackle Jerry Shaw and center Biff Pfeiff.
"We're pretty thin," commented Sommers. "We'll need some good fillers."
The Links have plenty of depth at center where 3 lettermen are back. Besides Pfeiff, Ron Rosenberg and Roger de Brown are vying for the pivot slot.
The Links have two top-notch ends in letterman Haas and Jim Dickerson.
Guard John Akers and back Dave Drevo are other returning lettermen.

Dick Beechner will assist Sommers with the varsity.
NE 80 Strong
Art Bauer's Northeast Rockets, who finished fast in '59 to earn 7th peg in the Star's ratings with a 5-5 mark, came out 80 strong Monday morning.
Among those returning was Dave Lebsack, who as a sophomore in 1959 developed into one of the state's finest quarterbacks.
Quarterback will be one of the Rockets' strongest points with veteran Mel Hester hot on Lebsack's heels for the starting nod against Southeast.
Hard-running Curt Kiner, the city's 9th scorer last year, returns to fill a half-back spot.

Ron Wevers is another halfback who saw plenty of action in 1959.
Larry Standley will try to fill Jim Grabowski's shoes at fullback.
In the line, which was hard hit by graduation, returnees include Jim Wiest at guard, and Ralph Wolfe at end.
Max Hester is Bauer's varsity assistant.
SE Has 103
Southeast, for the 2nd straight year, listed the top turnout with 103 boys checking in Monday.
Coach Tom Gillaspie was nearly wiped out by graduation.
Returning regulars from last year's 6-3 club include, back Jamie Amerman and linemen Gary Foster, Jim Howard, Joe Pease, Bill Baller and Bruce Wright.
Most of these boys became regulars when injuries sidelined several key men late in the season.
The Knights broke a school record with a 6-3 record, placing 8th on the Star's Top 10.
At Pius X, coach Vince Aldrich handed out togs to 64 boys, including 10 lettermen.
The veteran mentor says he has a strong first eleven, but that the Thunderbolts lack depth.
Regulars back from last year's 4-1 team are: Dave Travnick, defensive stand-out, backs Larry Rice, Larry Arth, Tom Neal, and Bob Knight.
John Love, Dave Zweig, Mike Alesio, Joe Kortus and

Only 2,932 customers forked over $120,773 at the Fairgrounds Races Monday as the track suffered its poorest day of the current meeting.
The handle was about $4,000 short of a comparable day in 1959.

Miss Merry T., with Larry Rettele up, broke its leg entering the first turn in the 6th race.
The 3-year-old filly owned by R. C. Sheldon had to be destroyed.

Martin Presented $1,040,000 Suit

... CUBS, BREWER ASKING DAMAGES

Chicago (AP) — Terrible-tempered Billy Martin, Cincinnati's fistic second baseman, returned to Wrigley Field Monday for the first time since punching Cub pitcher Jim Brewer in the eye and was hit with a $1,040,000 damage suit.
The suit, brought by the Chicago Cubs baseball club and Brewer, stems from a devastating punch the fiery Martin threw at Brewer during the Red's last appearance in Wrigley Field Aug. 4.
Brewer, a 22-year-old southpaw, suffered serious injuries from the blow in his face.
The orbital bone was fractured and the young pitcher since has undergone two operations to correct the damage. He still is hospitalized and probably will be out of the season.
Martin, who since has expressed regret for the fracas, charged Brewer was deliberately throwing at him. National League president Warren Giles fined Martin $500 and suspended him for 5 days.
Martin was served with notice of the circuit court suit when he showed up at Wrigley Field with his teammates for a single game against the Cubs.

Martin had little to say when served with formal notice of the suit, although he cracked:
"I wonder if they want this in cash or by check."
The Cubs and Brewer each seek damages of $520,000, $260,000 punitive and $260,000 actual damages.
The complaint, filed in circuit court of Cook County said Brewer has suffered a loss in the opportunity to engage in professional baseball and therefore lost great earning power, has suffered bodily harm requiring hospitalization, operations and other extensive medical expense.

The club charges it has lost the valuable services of the pitcher for an indeterminate length of time and has suffered loss in his training, development and future services.

All U.S. Gals Can Prove It

... NO BORDER LINE CASES

Rome (AP)—All the girls on the United States Olympic team are girls—and they've got papers to prove it.
"We've had some border line cases in the past," said J. Lyman Bingham, executive director of the U.S. Olympic Committee, "But we've got none this time."
He took a filled in form from his desk.
"This tells the story," he adds. "It's a ST-8 form, signed by a doctor. One has been turned in for all of the 18 girls on our track and field team."
He said every female on the American team had been closely questioned by a physician. The doctor turned in the papers when he was satisfied all the girls were just that.

3RD FULLMER-SUGAR RAY FIGHT IS SET

West Jordan, Utah (AP)—Plans for a 3rd meeting of middleweights Gene Fullmer of West Jordan and Sugar Ray Robinson of New York were formalized in a 3-way telephone conversation Monday.
Participants were Fullmer, the NBA title holder; Robinson, the former champion who recently lost and failed to regain the New York and Massachusetts title in two fights with Paul Pender and George Parnassus, Los Angeles promoter.
The fight will be Oct. 8 in the Los Angeles Sports Arena.
Each fighter said he hopes to knock the other out.
Robinson said he expects a "very hard, rough, tough fight. He (Fullmer) is the champion and a very good champion, and he fights 3 minutes a round."

He said Fullmer is a much tougher battler than Pender.
Under the terms of the contract Fullmer will get 40 per cent of the gate and Robinson will get 20 per cent.
Fullmer beat Robinson once for the title in January, 1957. Robinson knocked the West Jordan mink rancher out in a return bout a few months later.

3 Hornung Fielders Beat Giants, 16-7

Jersey City, N.J. (AP)—Paul Hornung, former Notre Dame quarterback, kicked 3 field goals Monday night to pace the Green Bay Packers to a 16-7 victory over the New York Giants in a National Football League exhibition game.

A crowd of 18,767 in Roosevelt Stadium saw Hornung's first field goal from the 23-yard line break a 7-7 deadlock minutes before the end of the first half.

He booted his second from the 20, his 3rd from the 15 and scored a point after touchdown to give him 10 of the Packers' 16 points.

The win was the second straight for the Packers in exhibition while it was the Giants' second straight loss.

The Giants dropped a decision to the Chicago Bears last week by an identical score. Green Bay went 60 yards in the first quarter for the game's initial score. The drive was climaxed by a 25-yard pass from quarterback Lamar McHan to end Boyd Dowler. Hornung scored the extra point.

The Giants came back in 7 plays to tie.

George Scott returned the kickoff to his own 42 and, after a first down on 3 plays, Charlie Conerly heaved a 35-yard pass to Kyle Rote on the Packers' 14.

Joe Morrison smashed through for 9 yards and Conerly passed to Rote in the end zone. Pat Summerall kicked the extra point.

IOC Meeting Adopts Chinese Compromise

Rome (AP)—A compromise which permits Nationalist China to compete in the 17th Olympic Games was adopted Monday by the International Olympic Committee which also took moves to curb extreme nationalism and bring amateurism up to date.

In a heated all-day session, the IOC decided that Nationalist China might enter a team under the name of the Olympic Committee of the Republic of China but must compete as Taiwan, its geographical location.

The Nationalist Chinese accepted this proposal after a stiff fight, supported by the United States, but declared it would fight to retain its identity as China.

"We never expelled Taiwan from the Olympics, as many presumed from our original action," said Otto Mayer, Swiss chancellor of the IOC.

"We took this move today to assure Taiwan a chance to compete.

"We just don't want them stretching beyond their own geographical boundaries — which form a small island — and saying they represent all of China, which we know they do not."

This was in reference to Communist China, which has refused to compete in the games as long as Taiwan is represented.

In other action, the IOC: 1. Decided to elect its president for a 4-year instead of the usual 8-year term, with no restriction of the number of terms a man may serve. This opened the door for the re-election of Avery Brundage of Chicago as president.

2. Added Judo to its program of recognized sports. Other sports, including baseball and golf also were recommended but turned down. The Russians fought both.

3. Placed a limit of 18 on the number of sports events which may comprise an Olympic program.

BRUINS CRUSH REDS

Santo And Zimmer In Key Roles

Chicago (AP)—Ron Santo and Don Zimmer combined to drive in 5 runs in a Chicago Cubs' 6-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Monday.

Santo's single and Zimmer's triple were key blows in a 4-run first inning. Three runs were unearned as Red shortstop Leo Cardenas dropped an attempted double play throw and left fielder Frank Robinson fumbled Santo's single.

The Cubs added two more runs in the 5th in shelling starter Cal McLish. George Altman singled and scored on Santo's second straight double. Rookie Santo came in on Zimmer's double.

No Protest Made Yet Against Boy-Type Gal

Rome (UPI)—No official protest has been filed against a female member of the British Olympic track team who—according to published British reports—may be turning into a man.

Red-faced British officials insisted that the entire story was phony.

The French didn't know anything about it, officially, but said the rumors they had heard were very, very interesting.

The Italians were too tangled up in red tape to make any official comment.

And U.S. officials said that if any protest were filed, it would have to be taken up by the proper board.

The whole thing started Sunday when a British newspaper reported that two nations had protested against an unnamed British woman athlete.

They said she was not a woman, or if she was, she wouldn't be for long.

British officials denied the report.

Monday it was reported the two nations who have protested were the French and Italians.

Dr. Rene Mathieu, the chief doctor of the French team, gave the case histories of several women athletes who later turned into men.

One noted case was a Polish woman athlete who won several Olympic gold medals in 1948 and later became a man.

TIGER TACKLE HURT

Columbia, Mo. (AP)—Dan Devine, head football coach at the University of Missouri, said Monday he had been informed that William Wegener, Tiger starting tackle, had suffered a severe injury to his right foot when he fell into a power lawn mower at his home near Higginsville.

Devine said he doubted that Wegener would be able to play football this year.

Larker Peps Dodgers By Giants, 8-5

Los Angeles (AP)—Norm Larker hit 3 singles, drove in 3 runs and fattened his league batting average to .349 Monday night as Los Angeles defeated San Francisco 8-5 before 37,681.

Gil Hodges accounted for another of the Dodger runs with his 352nd major league homer—a blow that made him the most prolific right-handed home run hitter in National League history.

He had been tied with Ralph Kiner, Hodges' homer was his 7th this year.

Reliever Larry Sherry, taking over for Don Drysdale in the second, held the Giants to one run in 7 1/2 innings and picked up his 13th victory. He has lost 8.

Ancient Duo Justify Seed With Victory

Brookline, Mass. (AP) — The ancient, 4 times-champions Bill Talbert, 41, of New York, and Gardner Mulloy, 46, of Miami justified their seeding in the national doubles tennis championships Monday.

Ranked No. 5 among American teams, Mulloy and Talbert blasted a couple of good young California players, Dale Junta of San Leandro and John Lesch of Coronado 6-1, 6-2, 6-1 in effortless fashion.

None of the other seeded teams experienced trouble and so this second day of play in the 80th championships was devoid of upsets.

The Australian champions, 21-year-olds Rod Laver and Bob Mark, were seen briefly in wiping out Venezuela's Davis Cup team of Marcos Gambus and Iyo Pimental.

Mark and Laver are No. 2 foreign seed, one notch behind the defenders, their countrymen Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson.

Thirty-two teams now remain in the men's draw. Fourteen couples are left on the women's side where the top seeded Maria Bueno of Brazil and Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., loped through a 6-0, 6-2 win.

BONUS BABY

Los Angeles (UPI) — Outfielder Lee Maye of the Milwaukee Braves Monday was named as the father of an unborn child in a Superior Court paternity suit.

Miss Bessie Espree, 22, said Maye fathered the child she is expecting next November. The complaint, filed by attorney Calvin Winn, asked that Maye be required to pay reasonable support for the child, hospital fees and attorney's costs.

Maye, due here today with the Braves, makes $10,000 a year, the complaint said.

KUENN SOARS INTO CONTENTION IN AMERICAN LEAGUE BAT RACE

New York (AP) — Harvey Kuenn of Cleveland, last year's American League batting champion, has moved into a challenging position in the 1960 competition on the strength of a .483 performance in last week's games.

Kuenn had 14 hits in 29 games and lifted his average 14 points to .310. Although in

Kuenn was a principal figure in the most widely discussed trade of the year.

He was dealt from Detroit to Cleveland for home run king Rocky Colavito on April 17. Colavito is hitting .260 with 25 homers and 68 runs batted in. Kuenn has 8 home runs, 48 RBIs.

Smith picked up one point last week, collecting 8 safeties in 23 times at bat. Skowron dropped 5 points to .312 on 7 hits in 29 trips and Sievers slumped 8 points to .311 on a 6-for-27 showing.

Ken Aspromonte of the Indians advanced one place to 5th. He had 10 hits in 28 at bats and gained 5 points to .309.

The positions of the 5 top batters in the National League remain unchanged, although pace-setter Norm Larker of Los Angeles increased his lead over Willie Mays of San Francisco to 14 points.

Larker boosted his mark 4 points to .343 with 9 hits in 23 tries. Mays lost 5 points to .329 with a 7-for-28 performance.

Dick Groat of Pittsburgh, who leads the majors in hits with 162, had 13 safe blows in 32 efforts last week and moved up 6 points to .323.

Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh is 4th at .314 followed by Richie Ashburn of Chicago. .307. Clemente climbed 4 points and Ashburn dropped two.

Cops And Robbers On Olympic Slate

Rome (AP) — One game not on the Olympic program, but very much on the Rome program these days, is cops and robbers.

Both sides are playing it with ringers.

The Roman cops have brought in reinforcement from other Italian cities and have called on International Police (Interpol) to lend a hand.

The "robbers" have rung in confidence men, pickpockets, call girls, burglars and various and sundry crooks. Hundreds of thousands of Olympic visitors are the pawns in the games.

Italian police have been worrying about protecting the visitors for months.

They are not so worried about the local underworld characters. They have the Roman pickpockets and pickpocketing pretty well tagged, and already have warned the purse-snatchers to stay away from the crowds and the girls away from the main streets.

What the Rome police are worried about are the underworld figures from out of town — the international crooked set — those who hope to cash in on the Olympics by getting lost in the Olympic shuffle.

Interpol has been asked to advise Italian police whenever a known foreign confidence man, call girl or burglar heads in the direction of Rome.

The Italians will try to stop them at the border. If they fail, they will be on the lookout in Rome.

A couple of Olympic confidence rings already have been smashed.

But a police source says some of the more notorious crooks have slipped out of sight and are now being sought by Italian officers and Interpol. Among them are:

—A feeble-looking, aged Frenchman claiming to have millions and a heart condition.

He checks into the most expensive hotels. In the quiet of the night he transforms himself into a spry, acrobatic burglar.

—A stunning Scandinavian blonde, delicately — almost frantically — feminine she feels all so lost in a strange city.

Men can hardly resist helping this seemingly helpless doll. But in the quiet of a secluded park corner of hotel room this little girl becomes a judo expert. When her gallant friends away from her knock out blow, they find themselves minus a billfold, watch, ring and other valuables.

—A handsome young German claiming to be a descendant of Kaisers.

His specialty: Befriend bejeweled elderly women tourists, especially Americans, and part them from the jewels.

12 Aussies Suffer Eye Irritations

Rome (AP) — Twelve Australian swimmers including worldbeating John and Ilsa Konrads, went on the sick list Monday suffering from conjunctivitis—a painful eye irritation.

The Italian Olympic Committee gave out the news in a special statement.

Dr. Silvano Ailvi, a physician at the Olympic Village, diagnosed the Australians' trouble. He said the inflammation of the eyes could have been caused by the chlorine in the water in the swimming pool or by excessive exposure to the bright Roman sun.

The Italian organizers said, barring complications, the swimmers had been ordered two days rest. That order upset the Australians final preparations for the swimming events which open Friday.

Washington (AP) — News paper reports on still-secret state papers say they show former President Harry S. Truman allowed Russia to stall off a Japanese peace offer 3 weeks before the first atomic bomb wrecked Hiroshima.

These reports say also that Soviet dictator Joseph Stalin once praised Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as an "honest man" for turning over to the Russians 135,000 German troops who had tried to surrender to the Americans.

These and other statements appear in a series of articles being published by the Minneapolis Tribune and the Des Moines Register & Tribune under the bylines of Fletcher Knebel and Charles W. Bailey of the Washington Bureau of the Cowles newspapers.

The series of 4 articles is described as being based on hitherto undisclosed, official papers on the Potsdam conference.

Last Big Meet

The meeting at Potsdam, near Berlin, was the last of the big wartime conferences of the major allies. It took place July 17-Aug. 2, 1945.

The State Department, which periodically publishes state documents of historical interest, continued its secrecy lid on the Potsdam papers Monday. Press officer Lincoln White said the documents probably would be ready for publication early next year.

An inquiry was underway at the department to find out who had "leaked" the documents to the press, and for what purposes.

It was understood that Secretary of State Christian A. Herter personally had ordered publication of the papers withheld until after the November elections, in an effort to keep them out of the political campaign.

Two Volumes

Knebel and Bailey reported the Potsdam papers as prepared by State Department historians total more than 2,000 pages, in two volumes, and that some of the material came from notes made by Charles E. Bohlen, now a special adviser to Herter on Soviet affairs.

Bohlen served as interpreter for Truman at Potsdam and kept notes on what went on in the President's talks with Stalin.

The Stalin-Truman consideration of the Japanese peace move was reported to have come up at a meeting between the two on July 18, 1945, at Stalin's lakeside villa at Babelsberg, Germany. Also on hand were their foreign ministers, James F. Byrnes for the United States and V. M. Molotov for Russia, and their interpreters.

The Knebel-Bailey account said Bohlen on March 28 of this year wrote an amplification of his notes on the July 18, 1945, Truman-Stalin meeting which was used by state department historians. Bohlen was quoted as saying:

Got Note

"Stalin said that the Soviet Union had received a communication from the Japanese, and he handed to the president a copy of a note from Sato (Naotake Sato, Japanese ambassador to Moscow) . . . with a message from the emperor . . .

"Stalin inquired of the President whether it was worth while to answer this communication. The President replied that he had no respect for the good faith of the Japanese.

"Stalin pointed out that the Soviet Union was not at war with Japan and that it might be desirable to lull the Japanese to sleep, and possibly a general and un-specific answer might be returned, pointing out that the exact character of the proposed (Prince Fumimaro) Konoye mission was not clear. Alternatives would be that they might ignore it completely and not answer, or send back a definite refusal.

"The President said that he thought the first course of action would be satisfactory."

No Clue

The Knebel-Bailey articles said the Potsdam documents give no clue to the precise reason for the decision to stall on the Japanese peace effort, but indications are that the allies' desire for unconditional surrender was the main obstacle.

Stalin's comment on Eisenhower reportedly was made at a pre-Potsdam meeting with 3 American diplomats who were at the Kremlin May 27, 1945, preparing for the Potsdam gathering.

The Knebel-Bailey report said:

"Mr. Bohlen's notes of May 27 conversation reveal that Stalin contrasted the 'unpleasant refusal' of Britain and the United States to turn over part of the depleted Italian fleet to Russia with Gen. Eisenhower's actions.

Honest

"He said, for example, 'Gen. Eisenhower as an honest man had correctly turned over to the Soviet command in Czechoslovakia some 135,000 German troops who had tried to surrender to the American army.

"This was an example of fair and honest behavior."

The other two Americans at this meeting were listed as W. Averell Harriman, then U.S. Ambassador to Russia, and presidential emissary Harry Hopkins, now dead. Harriman declined comment on the Knebel-Bailey articles Monday, saying he had not read them.

Ruthless

The Knebel-Bailey account said the Potsdam papers show Stalin as "ruthless, cunning, a skilled debater, possessor of an ironic wit—willing and able to lie glibly whenever necessary, able to argue for 'principle' in one breath and 'force' in another as the basis for international policymaking."

Stalin also displayed superstition and excessive doubts, the account added. For instance, the Russian boss said he believed that Hitler had not really been killed in Berlin, but actually was hiding somewhere after having fled to Japan in a submarine.

Stalin also proved to be a bad forecaster on the British election which resulted in Winston S. Churchill being replaced by Clement R. Attlee as Britain's prime minister and representative at Potsdam midway through the conference.

Stalin was quoted as predicting that British voters would keep Churchill in office because of Churchill's "great service during the war."

Highway Requests Pondered Fund Bottleneck Thwarts Work

By Betty Person

The Nebraska Highway Advisory Commission Monday took under advisement a number of road improvement requests presented to it at hearings at the State Capitol.

A delegation from Cozad made another strong attempt to get hard-surfaced roads north and south of Cozad—specifically, Nebraska 21 south of Cozad to the junction of Highway 23, and the addition of a road to the state highway system north from Cozad to Callaway.

Chief argument of the delegation was the necessity for providing hard-surfaced roads for resident farm workers who will be employed by new industry at Cozad.

Labor 'Reservoir'

David Osterhout, chief of the Division of Nebraska Resources, told the commission that farmers who want to hold jobs also off the farms represent a labor reservoir and one of the state's great assets in bidding for industry.

Commission Chairman J. R. McBride of Minden told the Cozad group the age-old problem of not-enough funds was still the chief bottleneck, and that it "looks impossible at the present time" to comply with the Cozad request.

A group from Beaver Crossing appeared to present for the third time its preference for an interchange with the Interstate Highway rather than a hard-surface road east of the community.

Preference Indicated

They said a recent survey indicated 39-2 a preference for an interchange north of Beaver Crossing over the other hard-surfaced road.

There were indications the commission will be prepared to make a decision on the matter at its September meeting.

A delegation from Omaha and Tobias requested early action on the hard-surfacing of Nebraska 74 from Tobias west to the junction with U.S. 81.

Difficulties Encountered

Witnesses introduced by Sen. Joe Vosoba of Wilber told of difficulties encountered in use of the presently graveled 7-mile stretch of highway as a school bus route.

A delegation from Stockham in Hamilton County led by Franz H. Penner requested adding a 3-mile stretch of road now on the county system to the state highway system west to Highway 14.

McBride suggested their problem might be more appropriate before county commissioners since the road was not part of the state system, but the delegation said it has had no luck attempting to get improvements from the county.

Other Business

In other business, the commission approved a motion to abandon and relinquish an old section of Highway 370 east of Papillion as the result of a relocation.

The commission's attitude toward the series of informational highway meetings now being conducted over the state seemed to be summed up in the comment of Commissioner Joe Votava of Omaha that they have been "eye openers to all of us" and that they were very worthwhile.

Three have been held thus far—at York, Bridgeport and Tecumseh—with 6 more scheduled in the next 6 weeks.

Methodist Women Leaders Meet

Discussing the program of the School of Missions and Christian Service, sponsored by the Nebraska Conference of the Women's Society of Christian Service being held at Nebraska Wesleyan this week are, left to right, Mrs. Ed Cobb of Ogallala, Nebraska Conference president; Mrs. Charles W. Mead of Omaha, chairman of the finance and estimates committee of the Woman's Division of Christian Service (national organization), and Mrs. J.R. Henderson of Little Rock, Ark., member of the Woman's Division of Christian Service. (Star Photo).

Methodist Official Explains Christianity's New Frontiers

"Christianity is the faith that compels us to bring to bear on all human life the spirit and principles of Christ."

These were the words of Mrs. J. R. Henderson of Little Rock, Ark., member of the Woman's Division of Christian Service, in her address to some 400 members of the Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service attending the School of Missions and Christian Service which opened Monday on the Nebraska Wesleyan campus.

The factors that confront us today include rapid social changes, new patterns of family life, population explosions, international tensions and changing trends in missions, Mrs. Henderson said.

'Frontiers That Call'

"Secularism, resurgence of non-Christian religions, barriers of race and culture, urbanization and nationalism, are the frontiers that call us," she pointed out.

"And the program that unites us in witness and service includes:

- Developing the spiritual life.
- Studying the needs of the world.
- Strengthening the local church.
- Improving community, national and world conditions.

—Recruiting workers.

—Securing funds for support of the work at home and abroad."

"Within our own nations we are faced with an alarming increase in crime, broken homes, juvenile delinquency, alcoholism and racial intolerance," Mrs. Ed Cobb of Ogallala, president of the Nebraska Conference of the WSCS, stated in the opening session address.

"WSCS is seeking to build a Christian community through prayer and study, through missionaries and funds to support the work of these," she said.

'Mission'

"Our mission today in the Nebraska Conference is study and prayer, knowledge and dedication resulting in missionaries and funds," Mrs. Cobb emphasized.

"Such a mission calls for Methodist women," she added.

The school, which will meet through Friday, includes study sessions, and a Bible hour each day, which is being directed by the Rev. Harold Crume of Omaha.

Tuesday's program will be highlighted by the Twentieth Anniversary banquet at which time staff members of the organization will be honored.

Jensen Accepts Leadership Of Kennedy-Johnson Group

Sen. Hans Jensen of Aurora announced Monday that he has accepted chairmanship of the Citizens for Kennedy and Johnson organization in Nebraska.

Jensen said the group he heads will be the "father agency" of other Kennedy and Johnson citizen groups which will be formed, and that it also will work in cooperation with the Nebraska Democratic State Central Committee.

The Aurora senator, who was chairman of the Nebraskans for Kennedy organization prior to the Los Angeles convention, also announced the appointment of Robert Rauner of Gurley as chairman of Farmers for Kennedy and Johnson in Nebraska.

Rauner, Jensen said, will organize farmers for the Democratic nominees for president and vice president throughout the state with organizations formed in each county.

Jensen said he was "tremendously impressed" with the two-day farm meeting at Des Moines held the past weekend.

A member of the Farm Advisory Committee for the national Democratic party, Jensen told how they listened to approximately 65 farm organizations and individuals give expressions of their "hopes, recommendations and fears in connection with farm problem."

"In the hearts of these people is the fear they will again be put through the wringer as happened in the '20's," Jensen said.

"I'm happy to state that 95% of the recommendations made can be embraced within the framework of the national Democratic farm plank," he continued.

After the advisory committee heard the testimony, it summarized the day's work and presented it to Sens. Kennedy and Johnson for their consideration.

"I think it's significant that the Democratic party has always been a party for, of and by the people," Jensen said, "and this is an indication that farmers—again threatened with the loss of their homes and farms—again have turned to the Democratic party for help," Jensen commented.

Stan Delaplane's POSTCARD

From the rocky tops of the highest Judean hills, you look down into history.

The blue haze of the Mediterranean is bordered by a white strip of sand that covers the ruins of the Roman and Crusader port at Caesarea.

The terraced hills flow down into the valley where Samson drank the drugged wine from Delilah. The land flattens into the desert at Beersheba where Abraham pitched his tent—the new town of concrete factories, the old town of robed Bedouins and camels.

In a full turn, you can see the haze of the Sea of Galilee. Across the hills into Jordan and the town of Bethlehem.

The gray stone of Jerusalem lies below you. A blue-and-white U.N. flag marks the boundary between the new city (held by Israel) and the old (held by Jordan). A sand-bagged rubble lies between.

Somewhere in this panorama, Israel holds Adolf Eichmann in a British-built Taggart fort.

We had no luck in trying to see the former SS colonel. "Israel intends to produce Eichmann for trial before the world. We are completing our case and expect to begin the trial next March," said a government spokesman.

Young Security Officer Ends Life In Flaming Auto

Laurel, Md. (UPI)—A young Army security officer who burned himself to death Sunday had warned his wife 24 hours earlier that he might commit suicide but she didn't believe him, it was disclosed Monday.

Investigators agreed that personal reasons appeared to be the motive for the death of 2nd Lt. Martin Harrison Innet, who had worked for the Army security agency unit at the hush-hush National Security Agency (NSA) at Fort Meade, Md.

The 23-year-old officer died instantly of shock and burns after spraying gasoline in his car and then igniting it with a match.

Mrs. Innet said her husband had visited a psychiatrist last winter to discuss problems related to poor hearing and eyesight.

Weather Ahead

Temperatures for the 5 days Tuesday through Saturday are expected to average near normal in the west to two to 5 degrees above normal in the east. Minor day to day changes are predicted for the north, with little change foreseen for the southern sections. Normal highs are in the mid 80s. Normal lows are 55 in the west to near 59 east. Precipitation is expected to average .25 in the west to .50 in the east, occurring as scattered showers and thunder storms.

Church Incorporated

The Immanuel Lutheran Church Unaltered Augsburg Confession of Osmond, Neb., filed articles of incorporation Monday with the secretary of state. Benj. J. Fuelberth was listed as resident agent.

permitted interviews with the chief of the special bureau that is investigating Eichmann. It was not too informative.

"Where is Eichmann?" "He is being held securely in a Taggart fort. He is being questioned, daily and is co-operating."

Eichmann was captured by "volunteers" in Argentina. He was flown to Israel, accused of being chief executor of Hitler's section that gassed 6,000,000 European Jews.

"He is spending his days writing." "What about?" "That will be revealed at the trial." "Has he communicated with anyone outside?" "No comment."

Eichmann was turned up in a search by Tuvia Friedman, a rather mysterious character who is now writing a book in hiding in New York. While there have been some romantic stories of Friedman—a former inmate of a concentration camp who made the Eichmann search a personal crusade—I find Friedman has quite a modern office in Haifa.

It seems likely that Friedman ran a privately financed documentary center on Nazi war criminals still at large. It also seems that he turned up the lead on Eichmann.

But who trailed him for months. Who financed the search, the capture, the special El Al plane that whisked him out of Argentina and into Israel—well, that was "volunteers."

"Eichmann has signed a statement that he came from Argentina voluntarily," says the special bureau.

The Eichmann case has set Argentina and Israel diplomatic relations at odds. Argentina claims a straight case of kidnapping and violation of their country.

Israel intends to hold fast to its position.

"The U.N. has steadfastly refused to establish a world court to try such criminals as Eichmann. Israel has a law to punish war criminals and Eichmann will be tried under that law," said Premier Ben Gurion.

Apparently there is a major drive to find missing, accused war criminals.

In 1965, Germany will end all charges against these people.

At present, about 1,000 persons are under arrest in Germany.

Israel believes the 1965 deadline will bring several thousand more out of hiding. Will Israel act against them? That is not answered. Will there be more Eichmann cases? No answer to that either.

For the small fry, Israel is content to let German law do the punishing today. Eichmann, Martin Bormann, some of the missing doctors in the "guinea pig experiments"—these may produce cases as dramatic as the Eichmann affair.
